EPIC MARIO BROS

THE STRANGE TALE

THE CREATOR STORY

Precursor: An unfathomable time ago, another realm existed called the Human Realm. This realm was home to a very technologically advanced species that soon controlled the entire universe. However, an evil entity called the Dark Matter Curse wiped out every last one of them. The Dark Matter Curse was an unexplainable wave of pure darkness that swept over everything, including the Humans' home planet. Only three of the beings managed to escape by traveling through a warp portal. They eventually ended up in a completely blank universe…

Genesis: The three beings had arrived at the Normal Realm, the universe where everything in the main series takes place. These three Humans found that they were able to control everything in this dimension because physics were much different from the Human Realm. They formed planets and soon their own sentient life. The three god-like beings controlled everything. They created millions of planets and stars for their own use. These deities were called the Creators by the people of the Mushroom Kingdom and beyond. The three creators were named the Elite, the Designer, and the Overseer. Each had a specific task.

Rebellion: One of the Creators, called the Elite, wanted everything to himself. Unlike the others, he felt that he needed to control the entirety of the universe and to put the dimension in perfect order. The other Creators disagreed, and battled on a planet in the center of the universe called Terramorph. Ultimately, the Designer and the Overseer won the battle, and managed to lock the Elite away on Terramorph. The Designer managed to create an intricate trap on Terramorph. The trap was activated, and the Elite was transformed into a gas form. The planet became a massive prison, aptly named The Center of the Universe.

Exodus: The Overseer and the Designer found a new dimension to reside in, called the Creator Realm. This realm is a gateway dimension between the Human Realm and the Normal Realm. They managed to guard and watch over the Normal Realm, while also keeping the devilish Dark Matter Curse at bay by choosing a being to watch over the Warp Zone. From this point forward, the Normal Realm naturally evolved and changed into what it is now…

PHILOXIAN STORY

Birth: Philox was born on the planet Zelphox in 1853. Zelphox was an aquatic planet, and was called the Aqua Kingdom by astronomers of the Mushroom Kingdom. The planet and its inhabitants were technologically advanced. They were called Zelphoxians. A year after Philox was born, his parents had a another child, Rigex. The two loved each other until their parents died in the civil war that shook the planet. The Northern Federation fought against the Southern Alliance in a bloody war that nearly destroyed the Zelphoxians.

War: Philox's parents died when he was only 7 years of age. They had been killed by an assault from the Southern Alliance. The Southern Alliance then proceeded to kidnap Rigex and care for him. They made Rigex their leader in 1903. Philox was left for dead until he was thankfully taken in by the Northern Federation in 1874. He soon became emperor of the federation in 1901.

Truce: Philox and Rigex both gained power from their respective sides of the war. They had complete control over their armies, yet the two brothers had no idea the other was the leader of the other side. Their armies clashed over Zelphox until they began to formulate a peace treaty. However, the peace treaty ended in the assassination of a high ranking federation officer. The two brothers dueled until they realized who they were actually fighting. Philox and Rigex came together, and the fighting ultimately ceased. A truce formed, and the planet returned to peace. The brothers had finally been reunited.

Exploration: By 1904, Philox had received his first starship, the Rising Star, a T-19 class mothership. This ship was outfitted with a duel warp drive and a Superweapon, a laser weapon capable of destroying large portions of a planet. After the war had ended in 1910, Philox and Rigex took complete control of Zelphox. The planet became highly productive and quite habitable. However, Philox quickly became obsessed with power. He soon traveled to other colonies and planets to obtain support from their leaders. Rigex remained on Zelphox to maintain the systems while his brother explored other worlds.

Commission: In 1966, Philox and his fleet were commissioned by the Elite to depart to The Center of the Universe. The Elite ordered Philox to destroy many planets, 300,000 to be precise. As a reward, Philox would receive the "power of the gods" from the Elite. He agreed, and set out to complete his mission. Rigex joined him as well.

Mission: Most of the planets were quick to fall with the power of the Superweapon. However, some planets resisted. Chandek, or the Cacti Kingdom, was a planet that required a mission of reconnaissance to destroy. While on the surface, Philox met with another bounty hunter named Chirox. Chirox's life was spared by Philox, and in return, was forced to serve Philox for life. Other planets like Icenda, or the Freezeflame Kingdom, had active defense units that needed to be destroyed.

Unfortunately, Philox was also ordered to destroy his home planet. Rigex would not stand for the destruction of his own planet, and so he fought back against Philox. However, Philox's superior strength thwarted Rigex, and Rigex's throat was destroyed in the bloody duel. Zelphox fell in 2010, only four years before the invasion of the final planet, the Mushroom Kingdom…

CONTEMPORARY STORY

Beginning: Mario and Luigi are born in the Mushroom Kingdom in 1993. Their original parents are unknown, but are later adopted by Yoshi after they are mysteriously dropped off at Yoshi's Island. This was the Overseer's idea, as he saw Mario as a chosen child who needed to destroy Philox and the Elite. Mario and Luigi grow up under the care of the Yoshis. Previously, Bowser was born in the western part of the Mushroom Kingdom in 1983. His true name is Tyranus Bowser. He had a brother named Septailus Bowser. The two Bowsers fought at a very young age, as it is Koopa tradition. Tyranus eventually Bowser flew his personal castle away and to Yoshi's Island to escape his brother, as Tyranus was not necessarily adept at fighting at the time. The young Mario and Luigi see this Bowser as a threat to the island, and set out to defeat him time and time again. Bowser begins to hate the brothers as a result, and so he wreaks havoc on the island. There begins a bitter rivalry between the brothers and young Bowser. Later on, a mysterious portal appears and Bowser, Mario, and Luigi from the future arrive on the island. Young Luigi is captured by the Bowser from the future who has taken over young Bowser's castle. He uses young Luigi as a power source to power certain functions of the castle, like the levitation systems. Later, the two Bowsers join up and completely take over Yoshi's Island. Mario from the future later wakes up on the island and is kidnapped by a Koopa who takes the unconscious Mario to the floating island. Meanwhile, young Mario and the Yoshis travel to the castle to save young Luigi. They run into Toad, who had arrived on the island years before. Toad had made himself a hut and controlled a farm and irrigation system. Toad was knowledgable about the landscape and terrain, and tells the group to climb the mountain up to the castle. While climbing the mountain, Yoshi gets kidnapped by Bowser's troops and young Mario has to leave without him. Luigi from the future eventually wakes up and meets young Mario's group. They unite and climb up the mountain together. However, young Bowser is at the top and so Luigi stays behind to fight him. The rest of the group climbs up the chain to the floating castle. At the top, young Mario and the Yoshis defeat guards and manage to get in the castle. Meanwhile, future Mario breaks free and explores the massive keep. He soon finds the captured young Luigi, but Mario is quickly caught by future Bowser. The two fight, but Bowser prevails and Mario is thrown off the side of the castle. Young Mario and the Yoshis are exploring the castle when they come across a vent in the ground. Yellow Yoshi travels down a vent on his own while the others disperse to try and find young Luigi. Back down on the island, Luigi from the future defeats young Bowser. Mario, defeated after being thrown out of the castle by Bowser, lands next to him, and the two return to the floating keep. Inside the hull of the fortress, Yellow Yoshi hacks into the flotation thrusters that keep the castle in the air. Young Mario also finds Yoshi, who had been kidnapped. The group then finds young Luigi and free him. At the same time, Mario and Luigi from the future arrive and confront Bowser in a final duel. He is surrounded by his rivals and about to be destroyed when Yellow Yoshi shuts down the thrusters. As the castle goes down, Mario, Luigi, the babies, and Blue Yoshi escape while Yoshi remains to fight Bowser. Yellow Yoshi also aborts and escapes the fortress. Bowser is quickly defeated and thrown out of the castle as Yoshi crashes to the surface with him. After the incident, the future Mario and Luigi say goodbye and travel back through a warp portal along with Bowser. Yellow Yoshi later has a son named Yellow Yoshi Jr. Yellow Yoshi later becomes a farmer and moves to mid-Mushroom Kingdom to join his family. Yoshi remains on the island along with other Yoshis. However, he most likely moves to eastern Mushroom Kingdom by early 2014. Toad also moves to the eastern Mushroom Kingdom along with Mario, Luigi, and Bowser.

Golden Days: At the age of 18, Bowser moves back to his homeland, west Mushroom Kingdom. This land is desolate with frequent volcanic activity. He meets his brother, Septailus who has taken control of an army. The two brothers clash in an epic war. Septailus is unfortunately thrown into a lava pit as Tyranus Bowser takes complete control of western Mushroom Kingdom. Septailus was badly wounded but was healed by a wizard known as Kamek. Kamek was once Septailus's second-in-command, but then moved to the east coast after Septailus left to the Bone Dry Dunes. Kamek became a real estate agent instead. After the war, Bowser took refuge at Septailus's castle. It became his base of operations for the time being. Bowser also desperately craved for power, so he frequently kidnapped the daughter of the president, Princess Peach. On a side note, the government became extremely corrupt as Bronty came to power. Mario and Luigi, on the other hand, received great fame as they rescued the princess time and time again. This lead to Mario having a somewhat close relationship with Peach. It turns out these kidnappings lead to Bowser having a son named Bowser Junior, born in 2005. A bit earlier, Bowser married a female Koopa named Bowletta and the two had a son named Nabbit. However, a brutal argument lead Bowser to killing Bowsletta. Bowletta became a Boo, and took her son Nabbit after getting divorced. After an exceptionally bad battle with Bowser, the castle was destroyed and the troops were left with no home. Tyranus Bowser then moved to eastern Mushroom Kingdom to a large house relatively close to Mario's. Meanwhile, Septailus had moved to the Bone Dry Dunes and took on a new persona, Dry Bowser. Dry Bowser had formed an army of Dry Koopas, a certain race of Koopa native to the Bone Dry Dunes. He had a son named Dry Bones who turned out to be quite dumb. The new army fearlessly waged war on neighboring countries, eliminating them one by one. Back in the Mushroom Kingdom, Mario and Luigi settle down as Bowser begins to tend to his son.

Prelude: After things have died down for the Mario brothers, they live a semi-simple life in their home on the east coast of the Mushroom Kingdom. The story officially starts one day as Mario wakes up on the banister and falls into Wario's toilet below. Wario and Waluigi had made their home in Mario's house after sneaking in the toilet. On a side note, Wario and Waluigi were born in 1987 to a rich family. The two loved money, but Waluigi was badly beaten by his father. He was never the same. However, the brothers' parents died and the two became orphans. They stole and committed crimes for money. Their life changed when they were adopted into Mario's home. Also, Mario forced Wario and Waluigi to live in the sewers below after becoming enraged when the two decided to live at their house. Mario and Luigi invite a miscellaneous Boo over to their house. This particular Boo has a mother who calls Boo home, but he ends up at Monkeyman's camp. Monkeyman was an apparition who had been living near Mario's house for quite a while. This type of ghost resides within the dreams of people, and is often called a Nightmare Poltergeist. Monkeyman was formed inside Junior's dream, and it's also where he got his name. Mario and Luigi soon discover Monkeyman's camp, and manage to free Boo and inflict damage on Monkeyman. Later after these events, Luigi loses his hat to Bowser Junior, who wears it and becomes a monster. Apparently the hat has some sort of spiritual connection to Luigi and curses anyone else who wears it. The hat later falls into Wario's toilet. Bowser then kidnaps Toad, probably for the sake of Bowser Junior's entertainment. He is rescued by Mario, Luigi, and the Yoshis. The Yoshis invite Mario and Luigi back to their island for a reunion. However, the island has been seemingly deserted. All that is left is a mysterious bird called the Time Bird. This strange figure transports Mario and Luigi to the site where the Yoshis had been captured by Bowser's forces. Time Bird is shot down by Koopa, and died on the spot. Mario and Luigi thankfully destroy Bowser's forces and save the Yoshis. (See Time Bird History)

Bowser's forces, Junior and Koopa, later rob a bank in eastern Mushroom Kingdom. However, Mario and Luigi stop Koopa and throw Junior in jail. Unfortunately, a Boo breaks Junior free but is thrown in jail himself. Mario and Luigi eventually catch Junior once more and find Bowser's lair. It turns out Bowser placed a fake version of himself in the lair, but the Mario brothers are flung out by an explosion. Outside the lair, Bowser chases the two bros. Unfortunately for him, he is defeated by Luigi's spoon. Mario and Luigi receive short lived fame for the feats in defeating Bowser once more. One night, Luigi has a nightmare about Monkeyman and manages to materialize in the physical world. He is back, and he begins planning his assault on the real world. Toad becomes possessed by Monkeyman, and sends Mario and Luigi to the top of Rainbow Mountain to get pizza. He tells them to read the Sacred Oblivion Book and a pizza will form. Obviously, the quest is a wild goose chase to give Monkeyman time to prepare his attack. It should be noted that the two encounter Mooger and Leapordude at the top. When Mario and Luigi arrive, they realize that the quest was a rouse and the pizza was fake. They unleash their rage on Toad, who is knocked off the mountain and is critically damaged. Monkeyman could no longer use Toad as a host because of his injuries. Later on, a random Chain Chomp is invited over Mario's house for an unspecified reason. He narrowly avoids landing in Wario's toilet. He then is called home later on. It is likely that the minions that arrive at Mario's house are spies, and the mother is actually Bowser. A few months later, a school is formed in eastern Mushroom Kingdom. Yoshi volunteers to be the teacher of the school due to his vast knowledge. Luigi is sent to this school because Mario believed he needed the extra knowledge. The school was called East Mushroom School. One day, Luigi gets bullied by Bowser Junior and his gang. Mooger and Leapordude have joined his gang too. Luigi goes home and gets trained to fight by Mario. This is the first instance where Luigi has fighting capabilities, and dubs them as

“plumbing powers”. Luigi quickly defeats all of Junior’s gang, and also throws Junior into Wario’s toilet. A few months later, Bowser is sent on a quest by Monkeyman to retrieve the Minimizer Weapon from the old Koopa Empire in western Mushroom Kingdom. This was part of his plan to get Bowser to subdue the Mario brothers so nothing could stop Monkeyman. However, Mario and Luigi still manage to destroy the Minimizer and return to normal size. A few days later, Bowser is ordered to capture the Mario brothers by Monkeyman. Unfortunately, Toad managed to rescue the Mario brothers and the plan foiled again. Later on, another minion spy arrives at Mario’s house. This time it’s a Goomba, and is ordered to attack the Mario brothers. Bowser and Monkeyman are desperate to kill the brothers now. Goomba must retreat after being badly wounded. The final plan to kill Mario and Luigi was to create nightmarish clones of them. Monkeyman and Bowser manage to create the Dolls, which would hunt down the brothers and murder them. Monkeyman lures the Mario bros. to a cellar where the Dolls are. However, the Dolls are assassinated by the bros. Mario and Luigi could not be defeated by Monkeyman’s forces, so he decides to perform his assault. A few months later, it’s Luigi’s birthday and he has a sleepover party. Bowser goes to the party to try and assassinate Mario and Luigi. Meanwhile, Philox’s fleet arrives at the Mushroom Kingdom. He flies a recon dropship down to the planet to investigate the civilization before planning an attack. On the surface, Philox encounters Mario’s gang and tries to tranquilize them to continue his operations. During the attack, Boo is knocked far away and many people were tranquilized. Luigi manages to fight back against Philox, and even knocks him out. Philox returns to his ship and prepares for the destruction of the planet. After the surprise attack, Bowser forces Mario and Luigi to find Boo, since he cares more about his minions than the killing of the brothers. Mario and Luigi agree, and head out to find him. They find him, and Boo tells the brothers that he saw a spaceship liftoff. It was Philox’s recon ship. A few days later, Mario and Luigi decide to trek into the depths of the sewer below Wario’s toilet to search for Luigi’s hat. They soon do, but are knocked out of the sewer by Wario’s Atomic Fart. Later on, Luigi has a nightmare controlled by Monkeyman. He is beginning his attack on the Mushroom Kingdom. Monkeyman then traps Luigi in the nightmare to begin his operations. Mario finds Luigi fast asleep, and discovers he can travel into nightmares formed by Monkeyman. Mario then finds Luigi inside the dream. Somehow, Luigi manages to escape the dream. Monkeyman continues his attack within the nightmare. Later, Mario and Luigi decide to return to the dream world and they unfortunately encounter Monkeyman. He explains that he has the power to travel throughout the dream world, and that he needs the Dream Stone to become super-powerful. In this state, he will be able to take over the dream world and the physical world. Mario and Luigi enter a new dream to search for Monkeyman to stop him. However, Monkeyman needs Bowser to help him. As a result, he travels through Luigi to the real world. Meanwhile, Bowser walks up to Luigi’s body in the physical world when Monkeyman is ejected and smacks into him. Bowser lost his trust in Monkeyman after he took control of him. However, the two make up and work together again to take over. They need Luigi to fall asleep to search for the Dream Stone in the dream world. Therefore, they formulate a plan to trap Mario and make Luigi fall asleep. Meanwhile, Mario and Luigi split up to find the Dream Stone. However, Mario is ambushed by Bowser and is defeated. Monkeyman then knocks Luigi out and uses him as a portal. He and Bowser then jump into Luigi’s dream. A little while later,

Mario wakes up and finds Luigi. He too jumps into the dream world. There, Monkeyman has obtained the Dream Stone. He activates it, and activates a Nightmare Form. Bowser runs in fear of the Nightmare Form, and quickly betrays Monkeyman. He joins the Mario brothers to defeat the Nightmare Form. However, Luigi controls the dream so he can control everything within the dream. He flies Bowser and Mario away from Monkeyman. He also knocks Monkeyman out before he was about to kill Mario and Bowser. Unfortunately, Mario and Bowser are defeated. Then, Luigi is knocked out by Monkeyman and appears in a strange dream. He reawakens, and gains power from his dreams. Luigi becomes huge, and duels the Nightmare Monkeyman. Monkeyman is struck down, and is finally killed. After these events, Bowser wanted to apologize for the crimes he committed on Mario. As a result, he invited Mario and Luigi to the beach. However, Wario and Waluigi snuck into the trunk of the car. They planned on taking over Bowser's shore house as their own, probably because they lacked a true home. However, they failed and were defeated by the Mario brothers. The Wario bros. managed to hitch a ride in the trunk back to their sewer. Ever since the fame died down for Mario, he began obsessing over video games. He also became slightly overweight. Mario then rage quits over the video game, and needs Luigi's help. Unfortunately, Luigi is unable to help and Mario becomes even more enraged, even going so far as to lock himself in his room. Meanwhile, Luigi, Bowser, Junior, and Koopa play Wii without Mario. Mario then becomes even more mad and it is revealed that Wario is behind a camera in the background, with Waluigi sitting next to him. This event was a documentation process that had been performed by the Overseer himself. After this, Luigi becomes extremely bored with the current lifestyle as Mario tends to his video game addiction. Luigi decides he should return to fighting crime, and does. However, Luigi's partner, a miscellaneous Blue Toad cop, gets eaten by Wario. Wario and Waluigi had been engrossed in a crime spree, as it was what they were best at doing. Luigi asks Mario for help, and the two set out to fight crime once more. They get a call from a nearby museum. It turns out Bowser has a strange impulse to hunt for power again, and steals the Ultimate Crystal with his forces. Unfortunately for them, they are caught by Mario and Luigi. Only Koopa and Goomba escape. The two troops run into Wario and Waluigi on a truck, and escape before Mario and Luigi can apprehend them. Unfortunately, Luigi is captured by Wario and taken to the bathroom. The door is guarded by the two troops from Bowser's squad, but are easily killed by Mario. Waluigi is shot as well, although Wario escapes with Luigi into the sewer. He places Luigi in an electric chair. Also, Waluigi managed to get into the sewer alive. Mario soon raids the brothers' base, but they take the Ultimate Crystal from him. Mario and Luigi are blown up out of the sewer. The two end up at a forest, but Bowser is there. Bowser agrees to help the bros., only to obtain the Ultimate Crystal once more. Unfortunately, the Ultimate Crystal had been turned into some kind of Ultimate Goo. Meanwhile, Mario and Luigi apprehend the Wario brothers. Bowser eventually touches the goo, and becomes brainwashed. He tries killing Mario and Luigi, but fails and is knocked out of the brainwash. Mario and Luigi become famous once more for defeating Bowser and the Wario brothers, but it doesn't last terribly long. Some weeks later, Luigi finds an old book about the Legend of the Fire Snake. It should be noted that Mario has gotten even more bored and restless due to the new lifestyle. Luigi heads out to find the Fire Snake and receive treasure. He rides Yoshi to get to Fire woods, and gets on a ferry to get across a lake. Luigi uses Yoshi's help to get to the top of the trees, and confront the Fire Snake. However, Luigi cannot beat the Fire Snake and Mario rushes to his aid after seeing this. After killing the snake, Yoshi is seen badly injured and is taken to the hospital. Thankfully, he is healed and returned to normal within a few weeks. A month later, Mario and Luigi find a mysterious note written nearly 4000 years ago by Time Bird. The Time Bird, of course, can control time. He states that the Ice Bird is missing and Death Bird is causing extreme damage. He tells whoever is reading to find Ice Bird. However, Death Bird stated below the note that Ice Bird is in the Frozen Forest. The Mario brothers head out, but quickly freeze in the Frozen Forest. President Bronty had been taking a walk through the snow, and give Mario and Luigi a ride to the Ice Bird. The brothers free the bird, and it explains it must save it's people. Just like that, it teleports away. (See Time Bird History) Meanwhile at Bowser's house, Junior kidnaps Toad for money to buy a 3DS. Toad manages to escape later on because of Bowser's poor defensive units. Then, Junior kidnaps Yoshi to redeem himself for letting Toad escape. Mario, Luigi, and two Yoshis  including Yellow Yoshi Jr. head out to Yoshi's Island. However, it was a trap set up by Junior and only Yellow Yoshi Jr. escapes. He later heads to Bowser's house to save the group. After everyone is free, the group confronts Bowser and quickly destroys him. Yoshi is saved and everyone returns home. A month later, a snowstorm hits and everyone is locked inside. Mario and Luigi play video games to pass the time. After this event, Mario becomes even more obsessed with video games and buys Halo 2. However, Yellow Yoshi Jr. and Bowser both try and get the game, with Bowser succeeding. Bowser attempts to get away, but is caught by the police. Finally Mario's obsession with video games reaches maximum as he attempts to join the Pro Gamer League. Yellow Yoshi Jr. has already joined it. Mario receives help from Goombae, the best gamer in the Mushroom Kingdom. In a championship round, Mario's rage manages to explode other contestant's controllers, but Yellow Yoshi Jr. wins. Mario calls him out saying that he's a hacker, which is true. Yellow Yoshi Jr. hacked the competition but still gets away with it. Mario reaches the apex of his fury. He becomes so angry that he even needs to go to therapy. His rage is shown when Luigi brings a rabid raccoon and fox home. Mario and Luigi take them to the vet, where they are diagnosed and cured of rabies somehow. The bros. take the creatures home, where they escape into the wilderness again. A few days later, Luigi is wandering aimlessly outside when he sees treasure on a strange tube. He takes it, but ends up being sucked into the sewers. Wario and Waluigi have thought of a plan to brainwash Luigi and destroy Mario. The Wario brothers use the Ultimate Goo and a special hat to brainwash Luigi. The newly brainwashed Luigi ambushed Mario. Taken back by the assault, Mario grabbed a baseball bat and whacked the brainwashed fiend. He eventually ripped the tin hat off Luigi's head, cutting off the connection. The brainwashing faded away. Mario headed down and into Wario's sewer, hoping to apprehend the crooks. He defeats both of them and kicks the evil brothers out of the sewer for good. On the surface, the Wario brothers witness a Philoxian Mothership enter the atmosphere. At the same time, the fleet arrives above the Mushroom Kingdom and prepares to annihilate the planet.

Invasion: That day, Bowser shows Junior how to capture a victim by kidnapping Luigi. Unfortunately for them, Mario arrives and puts an end to the demonstration. After recovering from the beating, Bowser and Junior look up only to see a fleet cloaking the sky. Philox's ships, however, cannot handle nitrogen and they crash to the surface. Philox immediately sends mechanics to fix the situation. He also broadcasts a message to all over the Mushroom Kingdom, pleading for support from the people. Mario and Luigi see this and remember Philox from his assault during the sleepover. The two discover the ship and search around. They eventually come across Philox, who had been planning on capturing the bros. for power. On a side note, Bowser had been captured by Philox along with all his minions, who had been brainwashed for Philox's personal use. However, Bowser could not be brainwashed for some odd reason. Instead of killing him, Philox let Bowser be a personal servant for the army. Mario and Luigi did not know Philox planned on capturing them, and immediately ran after realizing the trouble. Philox then sent his sidekick Chirox in to apprehend the brothers and utilize them for energy. However, Luigi was shot while Mario escaped the mothership. Although Luigi did not realize the energy he possessed, Philox did, and used him to power the ship. Mario, meanwhile, formulated a resistance group called the Alliance to stop Philox and rescue Luigi. Mario, Yoshi, Peach, and Toad trekked to the mothership for the first mission. This operation would, in theory, free Luigi and destroy Philox. When traveling to the crashed mothership, the group encountered Bowser. Bowser was ordered to kill Mario by Philox. However, Bowser failed and was critically damaged. He was demoted thereafter. After shooting the sentry eye on the exterior, the group made it inside. They encountered a few brainwashed enemies, but they were all quickly killed. Mario realized that Luigi was in the engine room, so the group headed there. They soon find Luigi, but the energy drained has already powered the ship. Toad, who was left outside, witnessed the ship taking off and quickly ran back. Back on the mothership, the alarms rang and troops rushed into the engine room to kill the invaders. However, most of the brainwashed troops were quickly killed and Chirox had to come in for backup. Unfortunately, Chirox was killed by Mario. Luigi then tells Mario that he cannot free him without automatically activating the Superweapon, a weapon that will annihilate the Mushroom Kingdom. Mario doesn't listen and frees Luigi anyway. A timer counts down and the group makes a run for it. They must destroy the ship before it's too late. Meanwhile, the Alliance prepares to help out by flying jets up to the mothership. While in the air, they encounter ships that must be destroyed. With no other way into the ship, the Alliance use ejector seats to jump into a hole in the side. Inside the mothership the Alliance find Bowser, who joins them after being demoted. Everybody meets up in the halls of the ship, and formulate a plan. Mario attempts to take on Philox and stop the Superweapon while Bowser, Toad, and the Yoshis fight the minions. Peach takes Luigi to an obscured hallway to recover. At the bridge, Mario confronts Philox who tells him about his mission. Unfortunately, Philox cannot be defeated by Mario and Mario is then brainwashed. The gun Philox carries actually is used to brainwash people. Back in the hallways, Bowser fights back against brainwashed minions, including brainwashed Junior. Then, the Alliance hears of Mario's death, and Luigi goes insane. He desperately craves revenge, and attacks Philox. However, brainwashed Mario tries to stop him. Brainwashed Mario though, is defeated quickly. Luigi then confronts Philox, but Philox jumps to the Warp Zone instead. The Warp Zone is actually the space between particles that forms a slightly different, empty realm. This Warp Space is how ships travel to extremely distant sectors of the universe. Luigi and Philox fight, but Philox is ultimately cast into the depths of the Warp Zone. Luigi returns to the real world, but has obtained the brainwashing weapon. He uses it to reverse the effects of the brainwashing. Despite this, Luigi forgets about the Superweapon countdown. He immediately then shoves the weapon into the command console, stopping the countdown. Unfortunately, this triggers a self destruct sequence that blows up the entire ship. The Alliance and Bowser's forces take cover in the command bridge as Bowser holds the door shut. Unfortunately, the ship is still destroyed but Bowser's strength prevents them from being killed by the blast and the fall.

Reconstruction: After the heroic actions of Mario, Luigi and the Alliance, the Mushroom Kingdom worshipped them as heroes once more. Also, Mario and Peach become close after the events of the invasion. However, things began to die down after a few months. Toad, unfortunately, became poor because he quit his job to pursue the epic wonders of the war. Mario and Luigi returned to their normal lifestyle. Yoshi became a full time teacher. Bowser settled down and finally began putting all his effort on caring for his son, and doing other lazy things. One day, Junior decided to get Mario Kart 8, but Bowser couldn't afford it. Therefore, he started walking aimlessly outside until he found Toad. Turns out Toad had begun scamming people for money. Junior ended up selling his house to get Mario Kart 8, which didn't even have the disc. Bowser and Junior are kicked out of the house, which now belongs to Toad. Meanwhile at Mario's house, Mario attempts to cure Luigi's fear of ghosts. he believes that Luigi should be in perfect condition for another attack. So, he ends up scaring Luigi half to death with fake ghosts. Bowser, on the other hand, is poor and homeless. Junior is off making up some strange game with a stray cat while Bowser is looking for a home. The two then find a real estate agency, and head in. The agency is actually run by Kamek, Septailus's old second-in-command. Kamek offers a mansion that once belonged to his uncle, for free. However, Kamek is quickly adopted into Bowser's army, and is ordered to clean the new house. Later on, Luigi is heading off to school when he is stopped by Junior's gang. They even go as far as to bite his legs. This requires Mario to train him for combat, partly because he feels Luigi needs training for another adventure. After the training session, Luigi attacks the gang. Junior even forces Kamek to help them by teleporting Luigi away. The teleportation backfires and causes Luigi to be transported to the Negative Dimension. In this realm, everything is opposite, even the colors. Mario is evil and loves pineapples, Junior is really smart, and Kamek is a dumb brawny guy. Mario then kills Kamek in this dimension, but is killed by Junior. Luigi wakes up, but is surrounded by Junior's gang. Mooger attack again and Luigi is critically wounded. He goes to the hospital and comes home a little while later. While he's gone, Mario goes insane with boredom. He desperately wants an adventure, and has flashbacks of Philox. He eventually passes out after the event. When Luigi comes home, he finds Mario and rushes him to the hospital. Also, school starts for East Mushroom School that September. Wario and Waluigi decide to obtain more money, so they kidnap Yoshi and take his place as teacher. On a side note, the Wario brothers manage to get a shack for a home somewhere behind Bowser's house in the woods. Mario and Luigi attend the school from time to time, but the Wario brothers continuously cause mayhem. Mario eventually gets caught by the police, but Waluigi breaks him free. Meanwhile at Bowser's house, Bowser is watching a TV show when an ad comes on for Super Smash Bros.. Bowser remembers that he wanted a Wii U, and asks Kamek for one.

Kamek is working on some sort of theoretical experiment, and can't help Bowser. So, Bowser asks his son. The two head to GameStop to buy the Wii U. However, the Wii U's have run out of stock and Bowser and Junior find the guy who bought the last copy. They trade candy for the Wii U, but it turns out to be just a box. That night, Junior has a dream about getting Super Smash Bros for 3DS. He ends up getting a job at Boo's Funhouse in order to obtain the money necessary for the game. Boo's Funhouse is actually haunted by figments of Junior's imagination. Monkeyman, the Dolls, and Boos appeared. Junior survived for 5 days in the dream until he received orders to look for a certain mask that had been haunting the funhouse. The Mask, as it is called, is another Nightmare Poltergeist that managed to manifest in the physical world, like Monkeyman. A couple weeks later, Wario and Waluigi perform an experiment with the kids at school. They use some kind of magic to turn a small creature into a larger version of the beast Junior turned into when he put on Luigi's hat. This energy is the same energy used to power Phliox's spaceships. East Mushroom School ends up being destroyed, and the students no longer have to attend. A few months later, the Super Bowl is beginning. Bowser wants to watch it, when the TV is destroyed by the Mask. Bowser orders Kamek to fix it, but ends up blowing it up instead. Kamek can't actually fix tech, he's a wizard. However, Bowser, Kamek, and Junior steal a new TV from the store. Unfortunately for them, the Super Bowl ended as soon as they started watching. Meanwhile, Mario heads out to buy Majora's Mask 3D from GameStop. However, Wario and Waluigi ambush him and steal his money. After being knocked on the ground, Mario looks up and sees a UFO. He goes inside and tells Luigi about it. The brothers later go back and search for the spaceship with a camera. They see that it has landed, and head towards it. Mario gets a bit too close and it takes off, knocking him over. The bros. go to the police station to show the evidence to the police. Since the government is stupid, they don't think the footage is real. Mario and Luigi go back and are sucked into the UFO. Inside, the brothers encounter the Illuminati alien race. However, Mario and Luigi probably misread the text on screen and was probably not in English. It is unknown what exactly the aliens are and where they come from. The Mario bros. are nearly brainwashed, but manage to survive. However, they find the footage and are shocked by what they saw. A few weeks later, Mario and Luigi are offered to adopt babies. They were dressed up just like Mario and Luigi, and named Baby Mario and Baby Luigi by Yoshi. Unfortunately, Mario and Luigi were forced to keep them and look after them. The babies cause havoc in the house, and even go as far as to shoot a gun, and destroy the Wii U. Meanwhile back at Bowser's house, Junior sees a strange ad for an amiibo. (See Amiibo History) He then begs for one from Kamek. So, Kamek manifests one out of thin air using his magic abilities. It was a Kirby amiibo, and Junior named it Poofers. Junior battled everyone in sight with Poofers, including Koopa who had his own amiibo named Blink. Poofers also battled against Toad's amiibo Samus, and Bowser's amiibo Bowletta. However, Bowser defeated Poofers by physically punching it. That day, Wario and Waluigi decide to be teachers at a preschool to get money. They end up taking a Blue Toad's job, and try and handle a bunch of kids, but cannot. The two leave the preschool but run into Petey Piranha. Petey had defeated the large beast that the Wario brothers summoned. He tells them that he's a spy for Bowser, which isn't true. Bowser doesn't utilize spies anymore. Petey is actually a rogue minion of Bowser's bent on becoming a famous criminal, and wants to take Wario's place. Later on, Wario and Waluigi try and scam Bowser since they no longer can get money from being teachers. Bowser gets and attempts to use his fire breath. Unfortunately, he hasn't used it in years and it doesn't work. Kamek tries fixing it, but says the only way is to get someone in his gut to switch it on manually. Kamek then turns Junior very small, and Bowser inhales him. Inside Bowser, there are tons of amoeba that can destroy anything. An unfortunate Goomba who had been trapped in Bowser's body for years finds Junior and agrees to help him. Junior proceeds to throw the Goomba at the flame switch to turn it back on. However, the amoeba devour the poor Goomba. Then, Bowser activates his flame breath and Junior is ejected out of the body. Meanwhile back at Mario's house, the babies have set the Wii U and all of the games on fire. Mario is enraged at this, and scares the babies off. Outside, Stevie and Black Yoshi are hunting creepers. These are not the same as in the Boring Adventures dimension. These two hunters are much less prominent and live primarily in mid Mushroom Kingdom. Stevie spots the babies, who are messing around outside. The babies then find a mysterious stone, which they somehow manage to activate. A massive portal to the Deoxian dimension appears, and the babies are sucked in to become the new gods of that realm. Back at Bowser's house, it's Easter, and Koopa has gotten Mario Party 10. He says that the Easter Bunny is giving away free copies. Junior tries to get one, but the Easter Bunny has ran out of stock. In order to get a copy, Junior must find all the missing eggs. After doing so, the eggs transform into a copy of the game. A month later, an earthquake strikes eastern Mushroom Kingdom. Before it happens, Luigi spots a mysterious moth creature in the woods. The scientists believe it was caused by a fat lady, but that's because they aren't that bright. Mario and Luigi escape their house, which unfortunately burns down. Mario is injured by burning debris that hit him in the house. Bowser, on the other hand, is completely fine because his house was built much more sturdily. He also receives a million dollars from the government for literally no reason. Mario had to be in the hospital for a month while he recovered. The house also had to be rebuilt. Life began to become grim for the brothers. They became financially unstable after the earthquake. However, Mario healed and started working again to gain some money. Bowser, on the other hand, was living large. He spent his money on video games and materialistic items. One day, Junior accidentally left Poofers the amiibo outside in a storm. The storm was actually so bad that it wiped out the power. Junior remembers that he left Poofers out in the storm, and goes out to look for him. Meanwhile, Bowser and Kamek try and fix the power. Kamek can't, because he's a wizard, not an electrician. They then call an actual electrician to fix the problem. While out in the woods, Junior sees a moth creature. This time, it evolves into a bigger monster, then disappears. The electrician turns out to be Pikachu, who solves the power outage problem by electrocuting everything. Junior manages to make it home with Poofers while lightning strikes the forest. Pikachu also ends up scamming Bowser by charging him nearly all his money. On the other side of the story, Mario and Luigi become more financially stable. He also gets engaged with Peach and marries her. They had been dating for only a few months but they knew each other for over a decade. However, the wedding doesn't go as planned.

Phase 2: After failing to kill Luigi in the Warp Zone in 2014, Philox ends up drifting aimlessly. However, his employer the Elite summons a Warp Portal that sucks Philox in. He ends up at the Center of the Universe. There, the Elite gives Philox his powers anyway, even though he didn't completely finish his mission. This is because he believes Philox will need the powers in order to complete the next stage of the mission. Because the Elite has complete control over the Leafy Kingdom, (See Leafy Kingdom History) he reactivates some of the foundries that construct holographic minions. He also orders Rigex to fly the fleet there. The Leafy Kingdom became a staging zone for the next phase. The Elite's original goal was to use Philox as a pawn to kill the Creators. He has found out that the Mushroom Kingdom is full of Warp Crystals, enough to form a Warp Portal to the Creator's realm. The next mission for Philox is for him to return to the Mushroom Kingdom and ignite the Warp Crystals with the Superweapon. Thankfully, the Elite has also supplied Philox with a new ship, called the Cold Fathom. He then tells Philox to never say a word about his existence, and like that, warps him to the Leafy Kingdom.

Preparation: The Leafy Kingdom, or Remorius, was once an extremely technologically advanced planet. It sits relatively close to the Mushroom Kingdom. The Elite sent Rigex to reactivate his old foundries, as the Elite once had complete control of the planet and knew the ins and outs of the place. These old foundries produced holographic minions for Philox's use. They also produced new ships, like the Rising Star. Philox took control of the planet and it's few inhabitants. One of these inhabitants was Frederia Toadsworth, an old Toad from the ancient civilization. He quickly began studying Philox and his intentions. He learned of the dangers of the Warp Zone, and that the Elite was actually still alive. Frederia Toadsworth also discovered that he could stop the attack by destroying the Communication Tower, but was unable to due to his lack of strength. As Philox began morphing the planet into his own staging grounds, Frederia became more and more worried.

Destruction: One day in May of 2015, Mario and Peach get married. However, the wedding is cut short by a freak Warp Portal materialization. This was actually caused by Frederia, as he studied the Warp Zone extensively. He had managed to reconfigure an old Warp Drive he found in the staging grounds. Frederia then channeled the signal towards the Mushroom Kingdom and directly on Mario. He knew about Mario from his recon missions at the staging grounds. Frederia's plan was to get Mario to help him destroy the Communication Tower, and prevent the attack from happening. However, everybody at the wedding teleported in and got split up. Peach ended up at Philox's staging grounds, Luigi ended up near the Communication Tower, and Mario ended up near Frederia Toadsworth's shack. Toad, Yoshi, and everybody else at the wedding managed to escape without being sucked in. Meanwhile, Bowser heads back to western Mushroom Kingdom to visit the castle where Septailus died. Unfortunately, a Warp Portal suddenly appears and sucks him in. This portal was a byproduct of Frederia's portal for Mario. Mario soon finds Toadsworth, and Toadsworth explains the situation in a way Mario would understand. He agrees to help Toadsworth, not knowing that Philox is actually behind everything. The two head out to the Communication Tower, until Philox cuts them off. Mario, enraged at the sight of Philox, instantly engages in combat. However, Philox has gained powers and quickly apprehends Mario. Then, Frederia Toadsworth is killed by a lightning blast from Philox. Philox leaves the two behind and heads to his new ship to finally begin the operation. Mario makes his way to the Communication Tower in order to prevent Philox from going any further. There, he encounters the new holographic enemies. Mario manages to destroy them. At the apex of the tower, Mario discovers that Bowser has joined Philox's ranks, again. The two immediately engage in battle, with Bowser being knocked off. Soon after Bowser's defeat, the mothership begin lifting off. Mario is unable to find a way to destroy the tower before the ship takes off, so he grabs one of the fuse cables and brings it up to the very top. As the mothership passes over, Mario jumps and grabs on. The cable ends up breaking, and the entire tower explodes. However, it's too late and the fleet has already taken off. On the ship, Mario finds Philox and the two duel. Once again, Philox's abilities are superior and Mario is thrown back down to the Leafy Kingdom surface below. Luigi meets up with Mario after he falls, and Bowser joins too. However, Mario is a bit skeptical about having Bowser join them. Nonetheless, the trio seek to then find a way back home to stop the invasion. Mario suggests they use a Warp Crystal at Toadsworth's shack, and the group heads back there. They eventually find the crystal and throw it, resulting in a Warp Portal that destroyed the shack. Unfortunately, Mario and Luigi don't wake up until twilight after warping back home. Bowser hitched a ride back to the mothership, and obtained his own ship as a result. Down at the Mushroom Woods, Mario and Luigi encounter the ghost of Toadsworth. Toadsworth helps out the brothers by lifting them up to the mothership. While flying, Mario jumps off and on to Bowser's new ship. Mario's goal was to crash the ship into the mothership, but the plan failed. Bowser and Mario fight, and eventually fall off the ship and into midair. However, Bowser is defeated and blasted straight into another ship. After this critical damage, Bowser receives a cybernetic upgrade. At the mothership, Toadsworth leaves Mario and Luigi to put an end to Philox. Luigi finds a large machine gun and holds off the hordes of holographic enemies while Mario searches for Philox once more. However, Mario finds the Superweapon room instead, and a vial where Peach is being drained of her energy. Apparently, Peach is connected with the Warp Crystals of the Mushroom Kingdom, as she is part of the original royal family. Her energy can be used to pump extra juice into the Superweapon. Mario rushes to save her, but is cut off by Cyborg Bowser. The two fight to the death, with Mario unintentionally rescuing Peach along the way. Mario then knocks Cyborg Bowser into the drainage machine, and it electrocutes him, causing him to plummet down to the darkness of the inner workings of the Superweapon. It is revealed that his weight and extra armor caused Bowser to fall straight through the Superweapon. He later ended up on the surface of the Mushroom Kingdom, beaten and battered but alive. He tears the cybernetic enhancements off after they are nearly destroyed. Back up on the ship, Mario carries Peach back to Luigi, who holds back the holograms. Peach is weak, so Luigi looks after her while Mario confronts Philox once and for all. In the bridge, Philox tells Mario about the Creators and lies saying that they are evil, and that he saw them with his own eyes. Of course, these lies were orders given by the Elite to ensure his identity would remain a mystery. Mario then assaults Philox, but is again defeated by Philox's electric powers. Just as Philox was about to kill Mario, Luigi arrives and blows up the command console. This triggers a chain reaction which blows up the Warp Drive. This event triggers a massive Warp Portal opening, and Philox rushes to get in. Mario follows, but is caught by Philox. The two engage in combat high in the atmosphere. They eventually arrive at the Warp Portal, and are transported to the Creator Realm. Here, Philox stands up to the two mighty Creators, the Overseer and the Designer. He plans on murdering them both. Although, this plan is ludicrous as the Creators possess almighty power. Mario attempts to run, and successfully manages to warp back to the Normal Realm, possibly by the Creators themselves. However, Philox tries escaping, but is killed by the two Creators in a flaming inferno, an extinguish of power and evil. The ship crashes back on the Mushroom Kingdom, and Mario, Luigi, and Peach watch the fleet burn. Mario and Peach eventually get married, and things return to normal again.

Revelations: After Bowser's traumatic incident, he had to be hospitalized. A month went by, and Bowser finally returned to his normal self. One day in July, Junior is watching an ad about Splatoon and is prompted to buy the game. He asks Kamek for it, and Kamek then conjures it from thin air. However, Koopa also wants the game, so the two assemble teams to have an ink battle over it. Koopa eventually wins the battle, but Bowser is shown to have gotten the game instead, ending the feud. Meanwhile, Mario and Peach officially get married and start a new life. Unfortunately, Mario begins featuring PTSD from the ordeal with Philox, and needs therapy sessions. Peach tries hugging and comforting Mario, which seems to work somehow, although she couldn't figure out why. Meanwhile, Kamek is testing out a new spell when he accidentally summons virtual characters into real life. Massive Pac-man ghosts appear and a huge Pac-man is summoned. In order to stop the anomaly, Kamek creates a prosthetic ghost, called Razor. This ghost is capable of destroying Pac-man. Junior pilots the fake ghost, and allows Pac-man to kill the other ghosts first. After doing so, Junior rams into Pac-man, finishing him off. Back at Mario's house, Mario and Peach are getting into arguments. These arguments are mainly caused by Mario's addiction to video games. They even get into a fight over a movie about an apocalypse. A month later, Bowser sends his son and friends off to summer camp, mainly to get rid of them. While the kids are there, Bowser has the whole house to himself basically. He sees a show about being immortal, and asks Kamek if he could become immortal. Kamek tries to make a potion, but the potion ultimately causes Bowser to have a seizure. At the summer camp, Junior and Koopa meet a kid named Nabbit. Nabbit lived in the hood and grew up in a poor family. However, Nabbit was actually Bowser's long lost son. After Bowser killed his wife, who later turned into a ghost, Nabbit was taken to the hood. He then grew up with his mother in a relatively dangerous environment. After the summer camp, his family moved to an area closer to Bowser and Mario. Back at Mario's house, Mario and Peach get divorced after several arguments and fights. They ultimately become tired of one another, and believe they are not right together. Meanwhile, Junior, Koopa, and Nabbit try and survive the summer camp run by Wario and Waluigi. Of course, Wario and Waluigi scammed everyone who payed for the camp so they could get extra money. After doing so, they didn't really care about running a proper camp. One night, Nabbit snuck away. This is not allowed at the camp, so Wario sent Waluigi to kill him. Junior soon followed but they ran into a Nightmare Poltergeist. This apparition was actually the Mask, who had manifested after Junior's dream. It then possessed Waluigi's mind and formed a nightmare on the spot. Waluigi was knocked out. Koopa then realized that everyone was missing, so he got up and ran into the woods. He soon met up with the other kids, who were horrified at what they saw. They then call Nabbit's mom to pick them up. A week later, Bowser, Kamek, and Junior are heading to Isle Delfino for vacation. They get on the plane and arrive at their hotel. However, as soon as they arrive, a large tsunami begins tearing its way to the shore. The three don't know what to do, until Kamek suggests they pray to the Delfino deities, the Shine Sprites. This works, and the Shine Sprite rise from the earth and blast the tsunami with golden energy. Bowser, Kamek, and Junior continue their vacation in peace. Meanwhile in the Mushroom Kingdom, Wario and Waluigi formulate another plan to become rich. They kidnap Peach, and Waluigi dresses up as her to take her place. Mario acts like he married her, and the ordeal appears on the news. Mario becomes enraged at this, even if he's no longer married. He rushes out to Peach's castle, but finds Wario and Peach kissing. Mario runs away in fear. Luigi suggests that Mario should fight Wario, and decides to do so. He heads back to Peach's castle, but is immediately drawn back by Wario. After the defeat, Mario decides to get help from Luigi. Luigi helps him train, and Mario then returns to Peach's castle. Peach has gone to the bathroom, so Wario engages in battle with Mario. The two end up crashing through the window and landing on the patio below. Wario explains his devious plans to Mario, and Waluigi reveals himself. After hearing this, Mario rushes to the prison cells and frees Peach. However, Wario activates his atomic fart and blasts everyone to space. Unfortunately, Wario is defeated by Mario and whacked into the sun. He somehow manages to survive. Mario, Peach, and Waluigi later fall back to the surface. Mario tries to comfort Peach, but she just slaps him and walks away. A week later, Bowser returns from vacation. Junior is outside when he finds a crashed alien spaceship. Inside he finds a small alien, who he befriends. Kamek sees the alien, and realizes that its a large death machine capable of destroying planets. He then blasts it to outer space, where it grows to extreme sizes. However, it dies shortly after from lack of energy. At Mario's house, Luigi has caught a cold. In order to treat him, Mario takes him to the doctor. However, doctors are mostly ineligible to do actual treatment and actually just gives Luigi a deadly virus. The virus clones Luigi's DNA and forms a clone of himself. After a long battle, Mario manages to kill the foul clone. Meanwhile, a freak Warp Portal appears and forms a tornado beneath it, sucking in Bowser, Kamek, and Junior. They appear in some kind of ancient dinosaur area, but they actually got transported to another planet. Minutes later, though, another portal forms and the trio are thrown back to the Mushroom Kingdom. Mario, on the other hand, needs to go back to work. He can no longer sustain himself because he doesn't have Peach's consent for money. One day when trying to get to work, Mario is interrupted by Junior and Nabbit, who shoot ink at the car. Then, the kids whack the car with a super powerful golf club, setting it on fire. After this happens, Mario becomes extremely angry and shoots the kids with an air soft gun. Luigi tries to calm him down, but it doesn't work. Mario ends up becoming even more furious, and he charges into Bowser's house. Now, Mario has unlocked his special powers. His extreme rage has caused him to discover fire powers. Mario then flings fireballs at Junior and Nabbit. However, Luigi appears and uses some kind of energy to subdue him. Mario returns to normal, and goes home. A few weeks later, Junior watches an ad for Super Mario Maker and asks Kamek for the game. Kamek summons a copy, and Junior immediately plays it. Unfortunately, the game was cursed and caused items from the game to appear in real life. It turns out that the curse was accidentally set by Kamek during the process of summoning it. Kamek manages to destroy the game before it becomes a problem. A couple days later, Luigi is jolted awake by the sound of an explosion. He walks outside and finds a massive meteor that has crashed in the woods. The meteor's energy reacts with Luigi's energy, which then unlocks his special powers. Luigi discovers that he can use his energy to attack or use his mind to telepathically lift things. Then, an alien spaceship appears and drops off an alien called a Starman. Luigi uses his newfound abilities to destroy the alien. Back at Bowser's house, Junior and Kamek have an amiibo battle. Kaman's amiibo is named Pikacheek. Then, a message appears stating that a contest has started. The contestants have to defeat three amiibo and then they can fight the boss. After defeating the boss, the player will receive Super Smash Bros. Junior's Poofers fights Pikacheek and wins. Then, Junior finds Nabbit and battles his amiibo named Super Hot. Poofers wins, and Junior heads to Wario's house. There, Poofers battles Wario's Fatso, and wins. After defeating three contestants, Junior heads off to Mario's house. Mario is the boss. However, Kamek has already completed the challenge and has received Super Smash Bros for Wii U. A couple weeks later, Luigi gets a gift from Yoshi. He gets a strange egg that hatches into a dinosaur. The dinosaur later eats batteries which charges it up and it grows extremely large. It was never seen again. Years ago, Nabbit's mom adopted Shermin, who died in a car accident. Shermin was buried near Bowser's house. One day, Kamek wanted to test out a new spell on the body buried there. He managed to summon the skeleton of Shermin, but he rejected him. Kamek saw Shermin as a dumb individual who wasn't capable of assistance. However, Shermin follows Kamek back home and frightens Junior. It is shown that Wario and Waluigi are once again helping the Overseer document the events that occur. However, Kamek accidentally uses a spell that caused Shemin to become evil. Shermin then stole Poofers, claiming that it was evil and had to be destroyed. As soon as Shermin was about to eliminate Poofers, Junior attacked him and his bolt of energy missed. Junior then proceeded to beat Shermin until he lacked life energy. Weeks later, Shermin's mom found his body and brought it home. At this time, Nabbit and Junior went out to prank people because it was mischief night. They first ding dong ditch Wario and Waluigi, who then try and shoot the kids. It should be noted that the real Wario is actually in the sun, and that this Wario is a clone created by the Overseer. The Overseer needed someone to help with the documentation and keep Waluigi somewhat under control.  Next, the kids proceed to shoot ink at Mario's house. Mario, enraged at the sight of the kids, calls the police. Nabbit and Junior dash to the woods, but end up at an abandoned house. They go in, however the house is also haunted. The kids become possessed by the ghosts that wandered the house. The police eventually find the kids and bring them to the police station. Bowser then picks them up, and brings them home where Kamek has to heal them. The kids are cured of the possession by Kamek's powers. A month later, Bowser kidnaps Peach again. He plans on returning to a life of evil, and the eternal search for power. As Bowser takes Peach back to his house, Mario hears about the news. However, he isn't willing to rescue her as he doesn't really care anymore. Luigi though, forces him to go on the quest. Although Luigi stays behind, Mario rides Yoshi to Bowser's house. The two first arrive at the Backstreets, where Nabbit is stationed with a bunch of minions. They are all defeated. Next, Mario and Yoshi land at the Golden Forest where Petey Piranha has been stationed. Petey has gone rogue, so it's unclear if he's working for Bowser at this point. Nonetheless, he's defeated. Finally, Mario and Yoshi make it to the Dark Forest, where Bowser is scrambling to get Peach back to the castle. Mario and Yoshi encounter a Chain Chomp, but it is destroyed. After hearing of Mario's arrival, Bowser sends Kamek to stop him. Once again, Kamek is easily defeated. The duo then confront Bowser. Unfortunately, Bowser uses a lesser used power, his lightning bolt. (See Koopa History) The lightning hit Yoshi, killing him instantly. Thankfully, Luigi arrived just in time and threw a 1-Up mushroom at him, reviving him. Then, Luigi blasted Bowser with his psychic abilities, defeating him once more. With Peach saved and Yoshi revived, the group returns home. However, their feats go entirely unnoticed as Bowser becomes less and less of a threat. A couple days later, Junior and Nabbit began making a YouTube channel. They received an unusual amount of fame, until they got a single dislike. After this event, Junior proceeded to destroy his channel and his computer. Meanwhile on a farm in the mid Mushroom Kingdom, an alien invasion strikes. A strange race of crop-killing aliens begin destroying Yellow Yoshi's farms. Yellow Yoshi had moved to mid Mushroom Kingdom in 2001. After taking up a farming a business, he became known as Farmer Yoshi. His son, Yellow Yoshi Jr., moved to eastern Mushroom Kingdom. However, Yellow Yoshi Jr. moved back to his dad's farm in the beginning of 2015. Unfortunately, Yellow Yoshi Jr. was killed by the alien invasion. Everything was lost for Farmer Yoshi, who became a homeless wanderer with his pet sheep, Fluffy. Eventually, he found his way to eastern Mushroom Kingdom to Mario's house. Mario and Luigi had been fighting over Halo 5 when it flew out the window and landed next to Farmer Yoshi. He picked it up, but when Mario asked for it back, wouldn't let go. Instead, Farmer Yoshi asked if he could stay at Mario's house in exchange for the game. Mario agrees, and show Farmer Yoshi around inside. However, Mario forgot about Halo 5 and Farmer Yoshi took it for himself. Inside, Mario shows the newcomer his room, and locks him in there. Mario also forgot about the spare Xbox One that was in that room, and Farmer Yoshi and Fluffy find it. They insert Halo 5 and are immediately addicted to the game. The two had never seen a video game in their lives. Farmer Yoshi especially adored the game for it's ideas about killing aliens, something he related to. Meanwhile, the Mask is wandering though people's nightmares. He eventually finds Nabbit's headphones, and possesses them. Nabbit though, brings the headphones to Junior's house to show him.The two fight over who should get to wear them, with Junior ultimately winning. Junior puts the headphones on, and passes out from auditory hallucinations. Nabbit tries the headphones, but the same effect happens. Kamek notices the kids passed out and revives them. He then destroys the headphones. The Mask ejects himself and wanders off. After waking up, Junior and Nabbit claim to have completely forgotten about the events that happened with the headphones. In a completely alternate dimension, dubbed "The Awesome Mario Gang" dimension, a Warp Portal appears. Mario and Luigi of that dimension are sucked in and appear inside Mario's house. Mario and Luigi from the Normal Realm wake up, and find the alternate Mario and Luigi in the kitchen. The multi-dimensional travelers can't get back home, so they agree to stay at Mario's house for the time being. However, the alternate Mario has a strange addiction to food, and eats everything in the pantry a few weeks later. Mario becomes enraged at this, and shoots fireballs at him. The alternate Mario and Luigi are kicked out of the house. Now, they must wander outside in the cold. Thankfully, another Warp Portal appears and transports the two home. A few days later, Luigi is writing his list for Christmas. Mario says he will get the stuff on the list as long as he doesn't cause trouble. Later that day,

Luigi kills Apricus Toadsworth. (See Leafy Kingdom History) Mario think that somehow Frederia teleported to the Mushroom Kingdom, and scolds Luigi for the murder. Now, Luigi has to go outside and dig a grave for Toadsworth. A strange elf appears on top of a tree branch, staring ominously at Luigi. He gets scared and runs inside to tell Mario. However, the elf is there also and it follows Luigi wherever he goes. Luigi tries killing it with a gun, but the elf activates self defense mode. The elf proceeds to fire a laser at Luigi, then an energy blast. The energy blast misses and revives Apricus Toadsworth. Then, Luigi fires a shot at the elf, destroying it. It turns out that the elf was actually Mario's robot designed to prevent Luigi from doing any more bad things. As a result, Luigi doesn't get any presents for Christmas. At Bowser's house, Kamek is testing a new spell but accidentally hits Junior's Wii U, blowing it up. Junior forces Bowser to get a new one, think he's the one who destroyed it. After days of searching, Bowser gave up on getting a new Wii U for his son. Instead, he wrote "Wii U" on an empty box and gave it to Junior. On Christmas, Junior opened the box and became extremely mad. However, he believed that Kamek caused this to happen, and forced him to buy a Wii U. Fortunately, Kamek was able to conjure it out of thin air. A few weeks later, Junior and Nabbit create a fake military operation with the sole intent of killing Luigi. Luigi blocks the attack with his psychic powers, but the second shot hits him in the leg. Mario hears about this, and sets up a fight so Luigi can get his revenge. Nabbit and Luigi duel, but Luigi is superior due to his psychic abilities. Just as Luigi was about to kill Nabbit once and for all, the mysterious voices in his head begin speaking. There are two voices: Alpha and Beta. Alpha is a green Luigi, and believes Luigi should let Nabbit live. He embodies Luigi's wisdom, intelligence, and reasoning. Beta is orange and represents fear, rage, and leadership. After a long argument, Luigi ends up not killing Nabbit. However, Mario blasts him with fire as he was about to leave. Meanwhile at Bowser's house, Junior finds a strange spirit of an old Koopa who calls himself the "Light Side of the Force". This spirit gives Junior mysterious powers. He is now capable of lifting things telepathically. Bowser gets a visit from a red Koopa spirit who calls himself the "Dark Side of the Force". This being grants Bowser evil powers which control and possess him. Bowser then assaults Junior unknowingly. However, Junior fights back and Kamek ultimately uses magic to blast the possession out of him. The old Koopa spirit flies away. However, the other Koopa spirit was torn out from Junior by Bowser, causing slight brain damage and insanity for a few months. Bowser did not realize what exactly had happened. During this time, Wario had been collecting evergy from the sun. He soon became super powerful and crashed back on the Mushroom Kingdom. Mario and Luigi find out about this, and remember that they were the ones who defeated him in the first place. They realize that he's back for revenge. Mario, Luigi, and Peach set up defenses in the house. Wario has also found Waluigi, and the clone was destroyed. The Wario brothers first arrive at Farmer Yoshi and Fluffy's room. They are playing Halo then the invasion happens. Wario threatens them and tells them if they do not speak about Mario, then they will be killed. Farmer Yoshi doesn't speak, and Wario burns everything with his laser eyes. However, after extensive damage has been dealt, Farmer Yoshi tells about Mario's plans. Wario and Waluigi leave the two to die. Meanwhile, the Mario brothers and Peach are preparing for the attack when the Wario bros. ambush them. Waluigi gets injured in the frenzy, but all of Mario's defenses are destroyed. Just when thing look grim, Mario grabs a rocket launcher and sacrifices himself. He overloads the rockets using his fire powers, and launches a rocket at Wario. The house erupts in a massive explosion. Thankfully, Peach discovers her ability to heal and prevents Mario and Wario from dying. Luigi covers everyone in a psychic shield to protect them from the explosion. He then uses his abilities to reassemble the house. Once the explosion died down, Wario and Waluigi run in defeat. Mario woke up later on. After the ordeal, the Overseer finally reveals himself…

Truth: Mario, Luigi, and Peach ask the mysterious newcomer questions, although the Overseer doesn't directly answer them. He lies saying he was created by a certain race and that he was stationed at the Mushroom Kingdom "facility". He also states that everybody in the Mushroom Kingdom is a part of some kind of test. This is somewhat true, because the Overseer has made sure that Mario stayed alive in order to kill the Elite. This also explains the ancient war. The Creators (namely the Elite) had been fighting their own creations. Also, the Overseer claims he is an AI, but this is what all the Creators say in their mobile forms to prevent the people from knowing the truth. The Overseer also warns Mario, Luigi, and Peach of an evil Koopa capable of killing them all. Meanwhile, Bowser is longing for some action. He becomes restless and imagines grand battles taking place. However, Kamek arrives and tells Bowser that Junior has knocked over a glass of water. This is a side effect of the brain damage inflicted on Junior when he was possessed. Bowser sees this, and becomes even more angry at their current state. He talks to Kamek about the issue, but Kamek doesn't care. He tells Bowser that they must look after Junior now, it's their job. However, Bowser doesn't accept that answer. Meanwhile, the Overseer tells Mario, Luigi, and Peach to check upstairs. It was Farmer Yoshi and Fluffy. He also says that an evil, dangerous Koopa is on the horizon. At that moment, a certain breed of Koopa born to kill breaks into Bowser's house. Although, the new creature is quite dumb and he calls himself Boom Boom. Junior becomes friends with him, anyway. Peach and Luigi then check upstairs and find that Farmer Yoshi's room was blazing. Farmer Yoshi dragged Fluffy out of the fire, except he was electrocuted for some reason. At the same time, Mario gets transported into the Overseer's matrix, a special area he designed for the purpose of overseeing operations. Mario sees everything, including Bowser who is forming a Koopa army. The Overseer claims he is an AI, which isn't true, and that there are more AI on the Mushroom Kingdom, which is true. It turns out that Fluffy was actually a Z-7 Type Automated AI, a type of defense robot. After becoming adapted to Farmer Yoshi, he defended him at all costs. This robot was actually a remnant of the alien attack on Farmer Yoshi's old farm. He came from the mysterious alien race that invaded the farm at mid Mushroom Kingdom. Meanwhile, Bowser and Kamek attempt to reform the army after being disbanded for so long. They successfully do so, but Junior is kicked out for acting rude. On top of this, he's sent to his room for punishment. Unfortunately, Boom Boom disobeys orders and rushes out to kill the Mario brothers. Back at Mario's house, the Overseer manages to fix Fluffy. Fluffy had been critically damaged by the fire. After restarting, however, he rushed out to defend the house. Fluffy somehow knew of the incoming Koopa attack, possibly due to the Overseer's reprogramming. Outside, Fluffy encounters Boom Boom and the two duel. Unfortunately though, Fluffy is defeated and thrown into the snow. Bowser and the Koopa army follow close behind, and make it to Mario's house soon after. Farmer Yoshi then becomes paranoid of Fluffy's condition, and rushes out to find him. He doesn't get very far as he is stopped by Boom Boom. Yellow Yoshi realizes that Fluffy must've been defeated, and has a mental breakdown. His last partner, dead. Then, Boom Boom assaults Farmer Yoshi and utterly defeats him. Farmer Yoshi ends up flying into Mario on the couch, and then explains that Boom Boom has arrived, but passes out. At that moment, the entire army breaks through the front door. Bowser quickly stations his men at points around the house to begin the attack. However, Mario and Luigi get to work annihilating the enemy forces. During the battle, Peach gets wounded and hides for the remainder of the war. Nabbit then lures the Mario brothers in, and drops a bomb on them. The two are hurt badly by the explosion, especially Luigi, who cannot move afterwards. Luigi is also struck by Kamek's magic, putting him out for good. Mario become furious at the sight of Luigi being injured, and blasts Kamek with a powerful fireball. Meanwhile, the Overseer tries comforting Farmer Yoshi. However, Boom Boom appears and attempts to kill him, but is cut off by the Overseer's godlike powers. Then, Boom Boom is thrown out of the house, forever. While Mario is beating up Nabbit, Bowser appears and stops him. Bowser explains that he wants to kill Mario, but Mario recoils and launches a fireball at him. the two fight to the death. Peach eventually finds Luigi, and begins healing him. He wakes up, but cannot move and is wounded. Bowser then lobs his own fireballs at Mario, which connect and Mario is struck down. However, the Overseer appears. He has used his powers to construct a hidden explosive network beneath Bowser. Mario realizes this, and launches a fireball at the fuse, igniting it. The trap detonates, resulting in an explosion that blasts Bowser out of the house. All of Bowser's troops retreat back to his house. Bowser is fortunately healed by Kamek after the incident. Boom Boom also returns to home base with the rest of the army. However, the Overseer mysteriously disappears the next day. Fluffy, on the other hand, had been dormant in the snow the entire time. A few months later, his recovery beacon activates, signaling the aliens to pick him up…

Recovery: A couple months pass after the events of the battle between Mario and Bowser. Farmer Yoshi and Mario search for Fluffy, but they have no luck. Farmer Yoshi soon becomes anxious, and actually quite depressed. Bowser gets fully healed, and Junior's slight brain damage subdues. Bowser's army goes dormant as well. Everything begins to calm down after the strange events that had taken place. The Overseer, on the other hand, gets into an argument with the Designer. The Designer argues that the Overseer should not have assisted Mario, or even shown himself for that matter. He says that he has given away too much, and the creations will become suspicious. The Overseer states that their creations do not think like that, and besides, Mario has already seen the Creators before. Mario is, after all, the chosen one that will defeat the Elite once and for all. At Bowser's house, Bowser and Kamek discuss the failed attack while Junior and Koopa receive a new 3DS game, Mario and Luigi Paper Jam. However, the game is cursed and a possessed Paper Mario is ejected from it. It was of course, a trap sent from Septailus, or Dry Bowser. The Paper Mario is small, but easily defeats Koopa by jumping on him. Then, the mini Mario attacks Kamek and Bowser becomes frightened. He quickly runs in fear of Paper Mario's presence. Kamek asks Junior and Koopa to find the fiend before it gets to Bowser. However, it's too late and Paper Mario duels Tyrnaus Bowser. After surviving everything thrown at him, Paper

Mario manages to copy himself and defeat Bowser. After this incident, the possessed Paper Mario is never seen again and is probably destroyed. Meanwhile, on the planet Miria, or the Sky High Kingdom, the Mirians prepare for an intergalactic journey. They bring along a sacred file that contains their plans for universal domination. However, when traveling above the Mushroom Kingdom, they drop the sacred file. The file lands in Mario and Luigi's house, and the brothers try inserting it in the Wii U. It doesn't work, and a Mirian comes crashing through the window. It takes the file and flies away. Mario and Luigi chase after it, but it freezes Luigi solid. Mario then tries killing the Mirian, but it bargains with him instead. It tells Mario that it will free Luigi as long as it gets to keep the file. Mario agrees, and the alien thaws the ice. It then ascends back to its spaceship. There, the sacred file is immediately destroyed for safety. The fleet takes off and heads to an unknown sector of the universe. A few weeks later, Kamek is communicating with aliens from an alternate universe. They are selling a droid to Kamek, however, Kamek doesn't pay them when they send it through. The new droid scares Bowser and Junior, who run away from it in fear. It then electrocutes Junior, which prompts Bowser to begin an operation to stop it. Junior fires an electrical bolt from a laser crossbow, which disables it. Then, Bowser catches it with a net. The two travel through Kamek's portable Warp Portal synthesizer to the dimension the droid came from. However, after releasing the droid into the desert, Bowser and Junior realize that they're stuck. Fortunately, Kamek finds them and teleports them back to the Normal Realm. Meanwhile, Fluffy activates his recovery beacon and the Krothians return from their planet Krothus, or the Poison Kingdom, to retrieve their robot. They are the same aliens that had destroyed Farmer Yoshi's crops and killed his son. However, the Krothian ship gets spotted by Mario and Farmer Yoshi. After seeing it, Farmer Yoshi rushes towards it to get his revenge. He is quickly sucked in by the tractor beam. The Kothian tries translating his language for Farmer Yoshi to understand, but the translation isn't very clear. The Krothian then attempts to brainwash Farmer Yoshi with a strange video of a Krothian dance, but fails. Farmer Yoshi then assaults the alien and attempts to get his revenge. Back on the ground, Mario shoots the spaceship with a gun, causing it to catch on fire and crash. Farmer Yoshi jumps out of the ship at the last second before it hits the ground. However, the Krothian survives the explosion, but Farmer Yoshi shoots it immediately. Then, the military arrive and attempt to cover up the crash. They warn Mario and Farmer Yoshi to never speak of the incident again. Two weeks later, they bring it up again and get a knock at their door. A mysterious black figure appears. He was actually the Death Bird. The Death Bird scares the two of them, and ominously vanishes with Mario's phone. A couple weeks later, Farmer Yoshi mysteriously disappears. He had been taken by the Death Bird after it analyzed Mario's phone. It is unknown whether or not Farmer Yoshi is still alive. Meanwhile, Bronty's term is up for presidency. However, there are no rules for candidates to become president, so Junior and Nabbit run for president. They soon become bitter rivals in the presidency race. They begin hanging up flyers around the Mushroom Kingdom. The two also film promotional videos for the campaign using the Overseer's contraptions. A few weeks later, a debate is held. It turns out that Bowser, Pikachu, Boom Boom, Wario, and Mario are also running for president. However, Bowser is hated by the crowds and blown up by someone. The only reasonable person running is Mario, but not as many people care about him as much as other candidates. Instead, people root for Nabbit and Junior, who are both ineligible and quite stupid. They begin arguing, and spit out dumber and dumber propositions. Junior though, decides that being president would probably ruin the country and the world, so he quits. Soon after, everyone else quits except Nabbit, who is forced out by the crowds. Since there are no more candidates left, Bronty must serve another term. A month later, Mario and Luigi get a Pokemon game, but it is cursed and ejects Pikachu. The Mask had possessed the game cartridge at GameStop. Pikachu had been captured by GameStop for use as a mascot, but he was sucked in the game by the Mask. After Pikachu becomes free, he begins using his abilities like crazy. Luigi wants to have a real life Pokemon battle, so he brings Pikachu outside to fight several inanimate objects. However, Junior and Nabbit attempt to steal Pikachu to sell him for money. They probably were acting bounty hunters for GameStop to retrieve their mascot. Then, Mario appears and saves Pikachu. Pikachu uses his powers to electrocute Nabbit, defeating him. Mario and Luigi let Pikachu free in the woods, and then return home. A couple days later, Junior is playing with Nabbit at Bowser's house. Nabbit shows Junior a new game, called Clash Royale. He says that you need your parent's credit card to play the game, so Junior goes on a covert operation to steal it. After successfully taking the credit card, Junior spends it all on the gems in Clash Royale, but passes out. After waking up, Junior and Nabbit have a real life Clash battle for a ton of gems, three million to be precise. However, the battle ends in a stalemate with both castles being destroyed at the exact same time. Junior and Nabbit fight over who should get the gems, until Bowser arrives when he realizes he has no money left on his credit card. Junior gets punished and is forced to stay in his room for a month. A few days later, Mario and Luigi are watching TV when they get sucked into it by a portal. They end up being sucked into the Paranormal Realm, another alternate dimension. They appear in a haunted version of their own home. They immediately encounter a Boo, and run for their lives. The brothers also find a ghost version of Farmer Yoshi, who has found a flashlight and a ghost-destroying gun for the bros. to use. It turns out that this Farmer Yoshi was not actually originally from the Paranormal Realm. He made it there on his own, but was possessed by a Boo, turning him into a ghost. It turns out that Farmer Yoshi was held captive at Death Bird's underground lair on Yoshi's Island. His mind was quickly wiped of all memories regarding the Krothian aliens. Death Bird did not have much use for Farmer Yoshi, until he began performing mysterious operations on him. One of these operations sent Farmer Yoshi to the Paranormal Realm, where he would remain for eternity. Mario and Luigi then begin exploring the house, and kill the Nabbit ghost and Junior ghost. Farmer Yoshi appears again, and says that the way out of the dimension is outside. However, the doors are all blocked by some sort of paranormal force. Instead, the brothers must utilize the vents to escape. The entrance to the vents is blocked by Kamek, who is easily destroyed. After escaping the house, Farmer Yoshi explains that there are ghost UFOs flying around. He also says that Bowser is guarding the portal back with a bunch of Boos. Mario and Luigi head off, but encounter a ghost Petey Piranha. The ghost is quickly killed though. After this, they find Bowser. It turns out that Kamek constructed a portal to the Paranormal Realm for Bowser so he could form an army of Boos. He wanted to kill Mario again after his miserable defeat. Unfortunately, a Boo possessed him and turned him into a ghost. However, that didn't stop him from attempting to bring the Boos back to the real world. Mario and Luigi, though, zap Bowser with the gun. The Boo possessing him left his body before getting zapped. Then, the brothers escape the dimension by jumping through the portal. Bowser follows, and explains his defeat to Kamek. Kamek tells Bowser to stop trying, but he doesn't listen. A month later, it's Easter again, but the Easter Bunny hasn't arrived. Junior asks Kamek to summon him, which he does. It turns out the Bunny has lost all the Easter eggs, and asks Junior and Nabbit to find them. In return, they will receive an Xbox One. After a few hours, the two end up only finding a couple eggs. There are still millions to find, and Junior and Nabbit give up the task. However, the Easter Bunny tells the kids that if they open up a special egg, they will instantly receive the Xbox One. Unfortunately, the egg is impossible to open. Nabbit gets mad and tries to get a nuclear bomb, but it's actually one of Bowser's test bombs. These types of bombs produce a holographic explosion and a flash bang to trick the victims into thinking they've been nuked. Of course, the fake bomb doesn't even dent the egg. The Easter Bunny returns but is shot and killed by Nabbit who is extremely mad at him for the prank. Meanwhile, Mario is becoming lazy again, and becoming more addicted to video games. He gives up on going to work and begins playing games all day. Luigi sees this, and tries to cure the addiction by stealing all of Mario's video games. However, the plan backfires and Mario goes into withdrawal. He proceeds to beat up Luigi until he tells him where the games are located. After being badly beaten, Luigi tells him. Luigi then begins to fear the possibilities of being broke due to Mario's addiction. Just then, Apricus Toadsworth smashes into Mario's house. He claims that he's a therapist, and can help Mario. Toadsworth performs strange operations on Mario, none of which actually work. Then, Mario gets transported into one of his video games. Luigi frantically tries waking him up out of the game with a hammer then a bat, but it doesn't work. So, he grabs Peach and makes her wake him up. Her voice actually manages to eject Mario out of the game. Then, Luigi blows up the video games with a Bob-omb. Mario gets extremely mad and beats up Luigi. Toadsworth reveals he has no other home, and is forced to live with the brothers. To make matters worse, Nabbit and Junior rob Mario's house the next day, but Junior is caught by the police. Nabbit somehow manages to escape, but Junior is punished heavily by Bowser. Meanwhile in another universe, the "Bowser Power" universe, Bowser prepares to kidnap Peach. Kamek has built a Warp Portal for him, but it backfires and sends Bowser to the Normal Realm. The alternate Bowser ends up at Tyranus Bowser's house. However, he is soon ambushed by Bowser and Junior, who throw a bomb at him. The two Bowsers begin arguing, and the normal Bowser orders Kamek to attack him with his spells. The two fight some more, and Kamek realizes that they should not fight, for it could mess up the space-time continuum. The Bowsers ignore him, and resume their battle. This time, they fight for real and begin beating each other up. Kamek, though, researches the extra-dimensional traveler. He reconfigures his portable Warp Portal synthesizer to the Bowser Power dimension channel. While the two Bowsers fight, Kamek prompts the regular Bowser to shift the fight to the portal. He wants Bowser to throw the other in, and get rid of him for good. Before being shoved through the portal, the alternate Bowser reminds the other Bowser that there could be millions of Bowsers, and that they aren't necessarily better than the rest. The real Bowser doesn't listen, and punches the alternate Bowser back to his own realm. After fleeing the cops, Nabbit had lived in the woods for a while. He had been afraid to go home. One day, Nabbit decides to break into Mario's house to kill him. Nabbit hated Mario for forcing him to survive in the woods without a home. However, he encounters Toadsworth and accidentally shoots him instead. Nabbit realizes he could use Toadsworth to sell for ransom money to Mario, which he could then use to get a home. After this, he drags Toadsworth far behind Mario's house and leaves a note. Mario sees the note, and rushes out to rescue Toadsworth. In the woods, Mario and Nabbit have a battle, but Nabbit is ultimately killed. Thankfully, the Overseer managed to revive him, since he was nearby when he died. Later, Junior finds Nabbit in the woods, and lets him live at his house for the time being. A couple weeks later, Junior and Kamek have another amiibo battle, with Kamek losing. Kamek then decides to craft the greatest amiibo of all time by mixing Poofers and Pikacheek together. However, the machine overreacts and explodes, but a new amiibo is formed nonetheless. It's the Mewtwo amiibo, but it's super powerful and acts on its own. Kamek gathers the best amiibo fighters around to join together to defeat Mewtwo. For once, the Mushroom Kingdom is working together. No more fighting or arguing, they are all working together. The reunion doesn't last long, for Mewtwo is defeated fairly easily. Unfortunately, Toad's Samus is destroyed for good by Mewtwo's abilities. A few days later, Nabbit robs a house and steals several items, including a new shotgun. Meanwhile, the Babies are kicked out of the Deoxian dimension for an unknown reason, and fall through a Warp Portal onto Bowser's patio. Nabbit encounters them, and tries to kill them with his new shotgun. However, they survive and break into the house. The babies then mess with Nabbit's loot, and destroy his phone. They then destroy the new shotgun, and Nabbit goes mental. He flat out shoots Baby Luigi, who gets carried away by Baby Mario to the woods. To make things worse, Wario and Waluigi appear and grab the babies. Fortunately, Baby Mario is not harmed by the Wario brothers but instead treated as a son. However, Wario is eventually kicked out of his shack due to foreclosure laws, and Baby Mario ends up wandering the streets. He is found by Yoshi, and adopted. Yoshi has thankfully gotten a new job instead of being a teacher. He has founded his own theme park based on distinct races of Yoshi. This has made Yoshi quite rich and famous. A few days later, Junior and Koopa find a DSi in the cellar room. Unfortunately though, the DSi is another cursed game that was cursed by the infamous Mask, who had been wandering in an out of people's nightmares. The cursed DSi causes the two kids to fight each other. This fight ends with Junior ultimately shooting the cursed system. The Mask ejects itself again in the background, but soon finds a permanent host to attack. A lonely Shy Guy. A few days later, Junior and Nabbit end up robbing Mario's home, with Nabbit shooting Toadsworth to get in. However, Toadsworth survives because he's actually a ghost possessing his own body. (See Leafy Kingdom History) Unfortunately, two assassins were stationed at Mario's house prior to the attack. They were part of the Silver Bullet Clan, an underground organization lead by the crime lord simply known by the name of White Yoshi. Back in 2014, Nabbit managed to steal White Yoshi's primary firearm, which was also his prized possession. This weapon was known as the Silver Bullet, a gun crafted from Meta Silver found only at Silver Mountain in northern Mushroom Kingdom. The assassins sent to Mario's house were ordered to kidnap Nabbit, but accidentally stole Junior instead. One of the assassins was killed, but the other escaped with Junior. After this incident, Nabbit found Toadsworth and asked him to help find Junior. Since Toadsworth is insane, he agreed. The two end up discovering that Nabbit kidnapped Junior, which isn't true. Meanwhile, Junior is held captive at an unspecified location by White Yoshi himself. He realizes that

Junior is not the target, and uses him as ransom. Nabbit and Toadsworth on the other hand, prepare to save Junior from Bowser. However, Toadsworth gets sucked down the toilet by a ghost squid monster originating from the radioactive sewers. Nabbit is sucked down as well, and the two end up on the outskirts of the city known as Philadelphia, near Mario's house. This shack is Nabbit's old home, owned by his mom. Nabbit's mom is there, but punishes him after hearing about his crimes. Toadsworth escapes the shack and heads outside. There, he finds another Silver Bullet assassin. This unnamed assassin poses as Nabbit's friend to gain Toadsworth's trust. The two infiltrate Nabbit's old shack, and find that he's bing beat by his mom. However, they also witness Nabbit killing his mom with his gun. His mom was actually a Boo from the Paranormal realm who had possessed Bowser's wife fifteen years ago, in 2001. She had a son named Nabbit with Bowser. However, Bowser realized her true identity and burnt her to a crisp. Before being burnt, the Boo ejected from the body. She took her son and moved to the city. Nabbit's gun actually has the ability to kill Boos, this is because the Meta Silver is an extremely powerful substance that is partially Warp Crystal and partially Titanium. After this incident, the covert assassin reveals himself and guns down the shack, resulting in it exploding. Nabbit and Toadsworth manage to escape, with the assassin dying inside. Meanwhile at Mario's house, Luigi summons Peach's pet Chain Chomp known as Snoopy. It breaks into the house, and Mario and Luigi chase after it. Snoopy ends up jumping into a Warp Pipe that leads to the top of a mountain. Snoopy gets stuck on a ledge, just as Peach arrives to find her pet. She gets extremely mad at Mario for losing Snoopy. However, Luigi manages to summon other Chain Chomps that form a bridge to Snoopy's ledge. Peach grabs him, and everybody returns through the pipe. A few days later, a package arrives for Mario. It's a game he ordered two years ago that finally arrived in the mail. Luigi though, wants the game for himself. In order to settle the feud, the two have a quick golf game. The first hole is Sunny Greens, but Luigi gets a hole in one. The next hole is Wild Woods, with Luigi scoring a hole in one yet again. Mario accidentally hits Toadsworth hiding in the woods instead. The final hole is Dry Desert, with the two bros. using Power Shots. Luigi scores another hole in one, and Mario rage quits. He hands over the game and returns home. Meanwhile, Nabbit and Toadsworth return to their quest to save Junior from Bowser. They travel through the forest behind Bowser's house, but encounter a venomous snake. The snake exhales a toxin that puts Nabbit and Toadsworth to sleep. Meanwhile, Bowser finds out that his son has been kidnapped. Kamek arrives and explains that he found Nabbit and Toadsworth asleep in the woods. Bowser then believes that they were the ones responsible for Junior's disappearance, and rushes out to the forest. Unfortunately, it turns out that Nabbit did not in fact kidnap Junior, and neither did Bowser. Nabbit and Toadsworth explain at Bowser's house the whole story. They come to the conclusion that some external group has stolen Junior, but they don't know who. Then, a knock comes to the door. It's White Yoshi, who shoots Bowser. White Yoshi explains that he needs the Silver Bullet gun, or Junior dies. However, Toadsworth knocks White Yoshi over as Junior and Nabbit escape. Unfortunately, Toadsworth is shot and forced to eject from his body. After this event, Bowser has to recover from his wounds inflicted by White Yoshi. He ends up sitting in his bed for months, thinking about revenge and becoming more and more sinister by day. Kamek tries his best to heal the bullet wounds that cover Bowser's body. Months later, Bowser has a rash thought to kill Mario. He winds up getting Kamek to build a nuclear bob-omb for his usage. However, Kamek doesn't want to build a bomb and instead pulls up a fake flash bang holographic bomb. This strange bomb produces an image that looks like a nuclear bomb, and also produces a flash bang that stuns enemies. Boom Boom accidentally launches the fake explosive, and everybody prepares for death. Then, they are all knocked out by the flash bang. Bowser, Kamek, and Junior wake up a few minutes later, believing the ordeal to have been a weird dream they all shared. Bowser's abnormal murderous thoughts don't subside however, and he kidnaps Peach. Meanwhile, Luigi is building a time machine out of parts given secretly by the Overseer himself. The Overseer was helping Luigi behind the Designer's back, although Luigi did not know it. Just then, Mario screams for Luigi. It's Bowser, and he murders Peach by throwing her against the wall. The brothers are hopeless until Luigi suggests they go through the time machine. Mario agrees, and the bros. attempt to travel an hour to the past. However, they end up traveling five years into the past to 2011. The two find themselves at the time when Bowser's spy Boo arrived at their house. The Mario brothers realize that they need to find the time machine in order to get back to the correct time, but run into Monkeyman who had appeared from the forest. The bros. talk their way out of being captured. Then, Boo is suddenly taken by the Nightmare Poltergeist Monkeyman. Mario and Luigi run away in hopes of not being spotted by theist versions of themselves. They find the time machine, but once again end up at the wrong time. This time, they are in 2015 at the back of Bowser's house. Then, Junior and his friends appear and have an ink war. Mario and Luigi quickly dash off. They later find their own home, where past Mario and Peach are arguing over a movie. The time machine is there, and the bros. hop in. This time, they actually end up at the time just before the incident. The Mario brothers quickly apprehend Bowser before he is able to attack Peach. They throw Bowser into the time machine and teleport him away. This creates a weird alternate timeline anomaly. Then, two clones of Mario and Luigi appear. They are the brothers from that timeline. Luigi explains that by traveling back in time, they created a split timeline. Luigi then proceeds to kill the alternate bros. Meanwhile, Bowser is teleported to another split timeline, just a few minutes behind. Bowser realizes that he must stop his alternate self from kidnapping Peach, or there'd be infinite Bowsers in one timeline. He proceeds to kill his other self and replaces him. Life goes on as normal in this new split timeline, which is identical to the normal timeline except Peach isn't dead. In the timeline Mario and Luigi teleported to, life becomes dull and the brothers become bored since Bowser is gone. They end up living a quiet life, but that timeline is quite insignificant. Meanwhile in the other timeline, (the one Bowser got teleported to) Junior watches an ad for Super Mario Sunshine. He asks Bowser for it, but Bowser is pretending to kill Mario. Bowser proceeds to tell his son that he can clean the back garden to get his game. Junior agrees, and begins cleaning it up. Unfortunately, Nabbit appears and drags dirt all over. Junior gets mad and shoots him with water. Nabbit though believes that it's a game, and returns with a water gun. However, the battle is cut short when Bowser arrives and inspects the patio. He thinks the garden is clean, and takes Junior to GameStop to get the game. Unfortunately, it's a scam and there's no disk in the box. Meanwhile, Luigi is outside and inhales some pollen from the flowers. He immediately sneezes, and becomes sick afterwards. Mario tries to heal him, but has no luck. He decides to take Luigi to the doctor, which he does. However, the doctor is stupid and gives Luigi pollen to inhale. The pollen actually heals Luigi by allowing him to sneeze. The doctor charges the brothers a billion dollars though. Mario and Luigi resist, and Luigi sniffs a nearby plant to sneeze, causing the doctor to be thrown across the room. The bros. escape and get back home. At Bowser's house, Kamek is testing out a new spell when it reflects off of a mirror and hits him. Kamek's body is immediately disintegrated and he becomes a ghost. Becoming a ghost is a unique attribute that was granted to his race. However, Kamek orders Junior to find his spell reversal book. He doesn't want Bowser to see him, as Bowser hates ghosts. Junior finds the book, but Bowser is actually reading it. In order to distract him, Kamek possesses a trophy. Bowser sees the flying trophy, and gets freaked out. Junior quickly takes the book in the frenzy, and hides it for later. Bowser tells Junior that they must eradicate the ghost, but Junior disagrees. However, Bowser doesn't care and wants to annihilate the ghost. He looks up how to destroy them and finds out that a vacuum cleaner will work. Just as Bowser is about to kill the ghost, Kamek reveals himself. Bowser doesn't believe that Kamek is a ghost, and sucks him up anyway. Junior freaks out and grabs the spell reversal book. He begins chanting the spell, and Kamek becomes physical again. After this event, life continues as normal. Bowser slowly forgets about killing Mario and returns to harboring his own son.

Renaissance: A month later, Kamek hacks the Pentagon, the head of the government's intelligence agency. Since the government is quite dumb, they do not know how to handle the situation. Kamek shows Junior his work, and Junior begins to learn how to hack himself. Kamek then goes into hiding to avoid the government catching him. Junior learns how to hack the TV, and changes Bowser's show. Then, he hacks the electricity and shuts it off. After this hack, Junior searches for a way to hack the entire world. He finds a power box, but it's where Kamek is hiding. Junior hacks it anyway, which causes a massive power outage everywhere. However, the outage also hits the Pentagon, causing the government to search for the hacker. They triangulate the source, and find Junior and Kamek. They attempt to apprehend them, but the two get away. Since the government is stupid, they forget about their mission and abort. Bowser is and has been a high priority target. Meanwhile, Mario and Luigi go to Yoshi's amusement park. He has been resurrecting ancient Yoshi specimens, including the Indominus Yoshi, the fearsome of all. Unfortunately, the Indominus Yoshi breaks free and attacks everyone at the park. Yoshi, Mario, and Luigi manage to escape. The Indominus Yoshi is later apprehended by the police force and the park's security. Yoshi Park is closed down, and Yoshi is left with no job and a bad reputation. A few days later at Bowser's house, Junior and Koopa find a new game called Pokemon Go. However, Pikachu and real life arrives but the kids think it's in the game. They chase after it, until they realize it's real and that it's bringing them to a remote location in the forest. Before they can wrap their heads around the situation, they encounter a dead body. It's actually not a dead body, but a Shy Guy that has been incredibly possessed by the Mask. The Mask manages to break free of it's host and infect Junior's mind again. Junior passes out, and Koopa brings him home. Bowser sees his son passed out, and gets extremely mad. Koopa quickly runs away. Kamek though, realizes that Junior is not dead but in fact possessed by an unknown force. He tries exorcising the ghost, and manages to rid it. Unfortunately, the Mask attacks Bowser later that night. The next morning, Junior and Kamek find him and try and wake him up. Meanwhile, Wario and Waluigi search the woods for a home. They eventually find the power box that was used to hack the world. The Wario brothers make a temporary home there. Junior asks Wario to fart on Bowser to wake him up, but that doesn't work. However, Kamek creates a dream portal that allows Junior to jump into his father's dreams. Inside is actually the opposite of what Bowser thinks. It's bright and there's a dream stone which holds the soul of the Mask. Junior grabs it and wishes for hundreds of video games. After doing so, the Mask ejects itself in a burst of energy that spawns video games all over. The Mask then finds it's old host, the crippled Shy Guy. During this time, a new school had been under construction after the last disaster. New East Mushroom School is erected and Wario and Waluigi are hired as teachers. They send a summer math packet to everyone in the class, including Junior. However, the paper was cursed somehow by several spirits. Junior burns it, releasing the spirits into the sky. Meanwhile, Dry Bowser and his army discover his brother's location. Dry Bowser creates a scheme to draw in Bowser and kill him for vengeance. In order to do so, he invents a boot camp for the kids to be drawn in, including Junior. Dry Bowser sets up camp in a woods area in eastern Mushroom Kingdom. Junior, Nabbit, and Koopa end up going to the camp, and meet Dry Bowser's son, Dry Bones. However, Dry Bowser attempts to kill all the kids, including his ow son who he hates. He sets up traps like a fire pit which burns Nabbit. The next trap is an orbital bombardment zone, which ends up killing Boom Boom on the spot. After this event, the kids attempt to escape while Dry Bowser goes to the bathroom. Nabbit uses the Silver Bullet gun to kill one of the Dry Koopas. The kids then try and run away. Unfortunately, there are traps everywhere. Nabbit, Junior, Koopa, and Dry Bones run into axes swinging. They manage to get through pretty easily. Meanwhile, Dry Bowser gets in his airship and fires cannons at the kids. They survive, and run to the Valley of Despair. This area is where the souls of Dry Koopas who died from the trap lay. Then, Dry Bones forms a Warp Portal, a technique only shared by royal Dry Koopas. (See Koopa History) Since Dry Bones is a descendant, he can utilize Warp Portals. The kids hop into the portal which leads them to the Sacred Dimension. However, Dry Bowser follows and takes his son. Everybody else returns home. Meanwhile, Mario and Luigi are playing a Super Smash Bros rom hack. Wario and Bowser join them after hearing about it. Bowser's son is still at camp and Wario had snuck into Mario's house. He immediately leaves after the game ends. Bowser goes home, and sees a show about science experiments. He asks Kamek to make a concoction that will allow him to become super powerful. Two weeks later, Kamek has finished the research on the concoction and asks Bowser to search for three important ingredients. The first is an orange eye, which is actually the eye of an ancient royal Koopa who had been preserved in a special dungeon. However, Bowser disregards it and steals the eye. The next ingredient is a baby Dragon, which is found fairly easily. The final ingredient is the Ultimate Starfish, which is in a Shy Guy's possession. This Shy Guy is actually the one possessed by the Mask. Bowser takes the starfish and punches the possessed Shy Guy. After gathering all the ingredients. Kamek mixes them together to form a concoction. Bowser drinks the strange creation, but becomes extremely large. Kamek manages to summon a mini mushroom and revert Bowser back to his normal size. He then fixes the house with magic after the incident. The next day, Bowser and Kamek go to the Boot Camp to pick up Junior and his friends, who had been attacked by Dry Bowser. Bowser thinks that his brother Septailus is dead, and doesn't recognize him as

Dry Bowser. Meanwhile, an entity known as Master Belch has invaded the sewers near Mario's house. It's Wario's old lair. This creature is a strange possessed pile of goo and trash. He has an army of spirits living in the sewers that then possess dead bodies, beginning a zombie outbreak. Mario hears about the outbreak, and searches for Luigi. However, Luigi is outside and must fend off hordes of Zombies. Mario follows his brother to an entrance to the sewer. Inside, Mario meets his brother. They find Master Belch and kill him, ending the zombie attack. Later that day, Mario and Luigi are bored and watch TV. The hype from the attack died down, and the two return to their normal, less intense lives. Mario wants to watch anime, and Luigi has a strange thought. He envisions a world of anime, with Bowser trying to kill Mario. However, it's just a weird thought. Meanwhile, Junior and Koopa are forced to stay outside after breaking out of the boot camp. They eventually find the possessed Shy Guy. Strangely enough, the Mask actually moved into a Gamecube console that began causing problems for the troubled Shy Guy. Shy Guy is now giving the console away for free, and the kids take it. They sneak back inside with some games they found. Junior plays the first game, Super Smash Bros, which causes Bowser and Kamek to fight. The next game is Super Mario Sunshine, which ends up causing Kamek to have a water jetpack and goo to cover the floor. The final game, Luigi's Mansion, causes Boos to appear in the house. Bowser and Kamek uncover the mystery behind the strange events, and Kamek destroys the cursed console. However, the Mask manages to escape once more. Junior is punished for having the cursed console and is not allowed to play with his friends. The next day, school starts for the New East Mushroom School. Nabbit, Junior, and even Dry Bones attend. Baby Mario attends as well. Yoshi has not yet gotten a job at the school, and still 3manages to harbor Baby Mario. Not much happens at school the first day. The next day, however, Wario becomes infected with a strange virus and is rushed to the hospital. School gets cancelled for the time being. Meanwhile, Luigi has a weird dream about being transported into the Halo universe. Bowser is a sergeant, and his son and Koopa are part of the UNSC. They are all in a Warthog for some reason. The dream ends with Bowser sacrificing himself to destroy the ring. The next morning, the brothers get a knock at the door. It's a Blue Toad, who explains that Toadsworth is dead, nearly six months after his death. The bros. celebrate, but the hype ends when Blue Toad says that there is a funeral. To make matters worse, Mario and Luigi are the only ones going. The brothers nearly get lost trying to find the funeral. After arriving, Toadsworth's body is thrown into the forest. Mario and Luigi quickly depart, but encounter Toadsworth's ghost. Toadsworth explains that he wants his body back, and Mario and Luigi reluctantly agree to retrieve it. Unfortunately, the plan doesn't work and Blue Toad begins panicking after seeing the ghost. He quits his job after that. Toadsworth receives his body, which had been rotting and decomposing. To make matters even worse, Toadsworth has no other place to live and must stay with the Mario brothers. The very next day, Pokemon Sun and Moon comes out. Mario rushes out of the house just in time to get the last copy. However, the Shy Guy that was once possessed needs it and chases Mario. He even goes so far as to punch him to get the game. Shy Guy unfortunately trips and gets injured. Mario takes the game and heads home. Meanwhile Nabbit and Dry Bones are planning a prank video. Junior cannot join them since he is punished. Nabbit executes his plan by jumping on top of Mario and stealing the game while Dry Bones records it. Nabbit then throws the game extremely far away. However, Mario becomes so mad that he hurls fireballs at Nabbit, forcing the kids to run away. Later on, he begins crying over his game. Luigi appears and tells Mario to try praying to Solgaleo. It's actually just a joke, and the ritual doesn't work. Luigi explains that Mario is getting too obsessed with video games, but is cut off when Pokemon Sun is ejected from the sky. Luigi is taken back by the ordeal, and surprised that the ritual actually worked. Solgaleo is in fact an actual being from the Deoxys Dimension. He had taken supreme command of that realm. A month later, the Overseer sets up an ad that is designed to make Mario think he's fat. This is to cause Mario to work out. Mario falls for the ad, and gets on the treadmill. However, he runs extremely fast and cannot control it. Mario is flung off the treadmill where he runs up to Luigi and Toadsworth who are decorating the Christmas tree. Mario is going so fast that his static energy causes the tree to explode. Then, the Overseer begins teleporting enemies in as a part of the test. Mario defeats them all. After this, Mario is thrown into the Overseer's contraption that projects a holographic environment. This is also part of the test. The holographic environment contains Bowser, which Mario has to ultimately defeat in order to finish the test. He does, and is flung out into the real world. Luigi and Toadsworth are there, and the three return upstairs. Next to the hologram projector is a box full of spare bodies. These bodies were accidentally left out in the open by the Overseer. This explains how he created a clone of Wario, or how he recovered Nabbit from certain death. During this time, Dry Bowser creates a temporary settlement on his airship. He doesn't return home for fear of losing his brother's position. Dry Bowser eventually utilizes an electromagnetic pulse, which shuts down Tyranus Bowser's internet connection. After this event, Kamek calls an electrician, who just happens to be Pikachu. Pikachu fixes the internet, but charges millions of dollars for the operation. As a result, Kamek teleports him through a Warp Portal to an unknown location. A few days later, a snow storm hits the eastern Mushroom Kingdom. Unfortunately for the kids, they have to attend school. It turns out the only reason the kids need to go to school is to "rescue" Wario from the hospital. Wario had been infected with a deadly virus, which cancelled school for a while. Waluigi and the kids then raided the hospital in order to extract Wario. However, Leapordude goes crazy with his gun and begins shooting everyone. The hospital is launched in a complete frenzy. One of the bullets hits a gas line, which triggers an explosion that destroys the hospital. Mooger and Leapordude get lost in the debris. Meanwhile, the Paper Mario curse that manifested from a 3DS game has actually survived, and has arrived at Mario's house. During it's travels, the Paper Mario ended up at a paint factory and has since gained paint abilities. At Mario's house, Mario and Luigi seek to destroy the cursed creature. Luigi suggests buying a Paper Mario game in order to trap the manifested curse. Mario walks to the store since the driveway is covered in snow. On his way, he encounters Toad. Toad had become homeless a while back. He offers Mario a copy of Paper Mario Color Splash for only one dollar. Mario takes the game, and returns home. He sucks up Paper Mario and all his paint, ending the cursed being's life in the physical world. However, Toad appears and states that the game was actually a billion dollars. Mario returns the game instead. After weeks of wandering, Toad eventually stumbles upon Bowser's house. Junior lets Toad inside, unbeknownst to the evil that lay within. Toad soon begins to go insane, and he gains nightmarish abilities. He uses these abilities to eventually destroy both Pikacheek and Bowletta. Kamek soon realizes the evil within Toad, and utilizes a spell to rid Toad of the possession. It turns out that the Nightmare Poltergeist known as the Mask had possessed Toad. The poltergeist flew off into paranormal space after being exposed. Despite Toad's lack of money and his suffering from the possession, Bowser denied him shelter. Toad was kicked out to be abandoned on the streets. A couple days later, Luigi receives a star sling in the mail. The star sling had originated from a proto-galaxy far from the Mushroom Kingdom. It hadn't even been discovered by the Mushroom Kingdom citizens. The Creators called it the Cosmodian Galaxy. This galaxy was home to a small synthetic planet created by the Creators themselves. It was called Genesis, and it was built to test DNA cloning. When the mysterious star sling landed on the Mushroom Kingdom, Luigi accidentally fired a game through it. Mario was sent out to retrieve the game, but was instead confronted by a Genesis drone ship. The drone ship had gone out of control, and it scanned Mario's DNA. The DNA was uploaded to Genesis's database, where it was processed and a new body was sent to the Mushroom Kingdom. The clone arrived at Mario's house, where it chased Mario and Luigi. Luigi managed to call Kamek to help, but he is useless against the clone. The clone also attacks Luigi, and creates a Luigi clone. Later, it attacks Toadsworth to create a Toadsworth clone. Luigi then lures the clones to the Star Sling where they fire off into space. A couple days later, Kamek is sent by Bowser to tell Junior and Dry Bones to finish playing. However, while in the basement, Kamek passes out and enters a nightmare caused by the Mask. In the nightmare, Kamek enters a strange room with a monitor. Dry Bones is there, and he tells Kamek that the place is called Boo's Funhouse, and that he must work there for five nights. His goal is to survive by checking the security cameras. Then, Dry Bones vanishes. Kamek then gets to work watching the security cameras. He encounters two strange Nightmare Poltergeists in the room; being the Tribeast and the Cyborg Mask. After defeating both, Kamek wakes up in his nightmare. He thinks he's really awake, but he is quickly transported back to the room. This time, Kamek is confronted by the Electro Wire. It is destroyed. Meanwhile, Dry Bones enters the funhouse but accidentally goes to the wrong office. He is then killed by Monkeyman. Monkeyman and the Mask later enter Kamek's room and confront him. Before they were able to attack, Kamek uses the Nightmare Stopper to exit the nightmare. However, both the Mask and Monkeyman were able to escape. A few weeks later, Junior and Nabbit attempt to prank Mario and film it. Nabbit shoots Mario's window, and the two run into the forest. They later upload it on Nabbit's channel. However, Mario follows them back to Bowser's house. At Bowser's House, Nabbit, Junior, Dry Bones, and Koopa attempt a second prank. They plan on having a war on Mario. Junior takes the camera, while Nabbit and Koopa use guns. Dry Bones uses a Nerf gun. Outside, Mario quickly stops them by blowing up Junior. The kids run back inside. Mario then talks to Bowser about his son's actions. The two agree to try and punish Junior. Meanwhile, Nabbit is angry at their failure. Then, Mario and Bowser appear and Nabbit attempts to get his redemption. Junior becomes increasingly nervous as the attack begins. He gets so anxious that he stops the entire thing. Bowser, angry at Nabbit, blows fire in his face and causes him to fly out of the house through the window. Nabbit realizes that he's no longer friends with the others, but fortunately, he finds the camera with the prank footage. Nabbit, without any home, must live in the forest. A week later, a group of conspiracy theorists show Mario and Luigi supposed UFO footage. They offer the bros. a prize of a Nintendo Switch if they collect more evidence. Although the bros. decline, they later find a UFO outside. Despite Mario's reluctance to pursue the space ship, Luigi drags him out to the forest. The UFO's electromagnetic waves then cause the light to become black and white. In the forest, Mario and Luigi encounter Mooger and Leapordude who attempted to confront the UFO, but failed. Ignoring the warnings, Mario and Luigi continue on. Further into the forest, the UFO lands and spawns an alien Starman. The Starman tries to use psychic powers on the bros., but they quickly run away. Later the next day, a police force arrives and declares the UFO evidence as a hoax. A few weeks later, Dry Bowser forces his son to help him take revenge on Bowser. He forces Dry Bones to cause Junior and Koopa to pass out with hallucination music. After the two pass out, they enter a strange hallucination, and start walking towards the woods in the real world. In the hallucination, Junior and Koopa enter Moonside. There, they encounter Dry Koopas and Dry Bowser himself. In order to defeat Dry Bowser, the kids imagine him disappearing. However, after he is defeated, they leave the trip. In the real world, Dry Bowser is there and is about to kidnap the two. However, Dry Bones stops him and allows Junior and Koopa to escape. Dry Bowser attacks his son and abandons him in the forest to continue his conquest. Dry Bones, scared and depressed, wanders the forest, but soon encounters the Mask, who possesses him. Back in January, Mario and Luigi preorder the Nintendo Switch. On the day it comes out, the Switch doesn't arrive. Outside, Junior ambushes the delivery truck and steals the Switch. After realizing what had happened, Mario attacks Junior by blowing him up. Mario then takes the Switch back inside and opens it up. However, Bowser appears with his son to confront Mario, until Junior confesses to what he had done. A few years prior, it is confirmed that Link accidentally was transported out of the Boring Adventures Realm to the Normal Realm. Now, he is stuck wandering the forest. He soon comes across Mario's house and steals his Zelda game. He takes it to the woods with Mario and Luigi in pursuit. Deep in the forest, Link uses it to summon the goddess Paraxia. However, Paraxia only exists in the Boring Adventures dimension, so his attempts prove to be futile. After being confronted by Mario and Luigi, Link is forced to rap. During his rap however, Mario steals the game back. The next day, Bowser and Junior head off to the store to steal groceries. Kamek is left home alone. During this time, airships appear over the house and they begin firing cannonballs. Kamek, in distress, calls Bowser who is in the middle of stealing the groceries. Meanwhile, Dry Bowser and a Dry Koopa jump down and begin to assault Bowser's house. Just then, Bowser arrives and Dry Bowser confronts him. The two enter a duel and Dry Bowser uses his abilities to fly up to the clouds. There, it is revealed the Dry Bowser is actually Septailus, Bowser's brother. With that, the two enter a bloody battle. Septailus is ultimately cast down, but is saved by his airship. Bowser then falls back to the ground. Meanwhile, Mario gets a call from Peach, asking if she could come over. Mario panics and asks Toadsworth to cook a meal. Within a few hours, Peach arrives. However, the meal is horrible and Mario asks Toadsworth to cook it again. Then, a being from another dimension called the Frankie Tomasic Dimension calls. He wants to have orange juice, but Mario is in no mood to help him. Toadsworth brings in a second meal, which is somehow worse than the first. Mario, extremely mad, decides to watch TV with Peach instead. They watch The Ultimate Nerf War and Rock Cat before being confronted by Bronty, Peach's father. Bronty asks Peach to come home, and she does. Meanwhile, Junior and Koopa buy three new Amiibo. The Amiibo arrive soon after. They are the Inklings and a Squid. Junior chooses the Inkling Girl while Koopa chooses the boy. After battling the two Amiibo, the Squid Amibo arrives. The Squid feels rejected, and is filled with revenge. He kills both of the Inklings. Enraged, Bowser Junior shoots the Squid with Nabbit's pistol, killing it. A few days later, Link sneaks into Mario and Luigi's house while Mario is watching TV with Peach. He arrives at Mario's room, thinking he can stay. After an argument, Peach convinces Mario that Link can stay. However, immediately after Mario and Peach leave, Link steals the Majora's Mask game. The game ends up spawning a massive moon in the sky, ready to crash into Mario's house. Mario is enraged. Link, Peach, and Mario are then forced to hide in the sewer while the moon crashes into the house, destroying it. A police officer arrives shortly after the event, claiming that a new house will be built in two weeks. During that time, Mario becomes homeless. Toadsworth and Link find a gun to kill wild animals for food. Luigi suggests to live at Bowser's house, and so the group heads out. Along the way, they meet a burger who is killed by Link's gun. At the house, Bowser reluctantly lets the group stay. Two weeks later, they are kicked out because Link had stolen a game of Bowser's. Coincidentally, Mario's house is completed just in time, and the group moves back in. Unfortunately, Link is also forced to stay with Mario because apparently he is Mario's child. A few weeks later, Junior and Koopa receive a knock at the door. It's Dry Bones, who turns out to be possessed. Kamek arrives and knocks the Mask out of Dry Bones' body with a spell. Kamek sends the kids to distract the ghost while he constructs a device to capture the being. After successfully creating the machine, Junior, Koopa, and Dry Bones lure the Mask to it. The Mask is sucked in, but the victory is short lived. Soon after capturing the poltergeist, Monkeyman appears and stabs the machine with his cursed knife. The Mask is released. Monkeyman absorbs the Mask into his knife, causing the two to become engulfed in nightmarish powers. Monkeyman sucks everyone into the Nightmare Dimension, a realm of pure evil and fear. Monkeyman is however unable to contain the power, and consequently releases the nightmare. The power is overwhelming, and Kamek, Junior, and Dry Bones become insane. Junior prays for help, and collective thoughts of everybody cause the nightmare to disappear. The dimension decays, and Kamek, Junior, and Dry Bones return to the normal dimension. However, a small remnant of the dimension remained, and then forms a black portal in the backyard…

Revenge: After his death in 2015, Philox's brother Rigex takes control of the fleet. The new fleet is called the Rigexian Empire, and it's home base is the ruined planet of Icenda, or the Freezeflame Kingdom. This planet was wrecked by Philox's fleet 40 years ago. The planet becomes the base of operations for the Rigexian Empire, with it being a safe place to dock ships and prepare for any assaults. Rigex was deeply distraught by the death of his brother, and sought eternal revenge. He desperately desired to kill those responsible. Rigex is actually an extremely powerful being, however he doesn't necessarily use his powers too often. He isn't power hungry like his brother. When tragedy strikes though, he is quick to become enraged and eliminate his targets. The Rigexian Empire soon begins scouring the universe in search for Philox's assassin. During this time, Rigex is constantly contacted by the Elite. The Elite offers bounty for Rigex, but he declines. It shows that Rigex does not want power, just vengeance. However, the Elite offers Rigex the location of his brother's killer. In return, Rigex must perform a classified assassination. If Rigex fails to hold up his end of the bargain, he will be killed. The Elite explains that Philox died on the Mushroom Kingdom, along with half the fleet. He also explains that the killer was a hero named Mario, who also managed to take down the entire fleet at the Mushroom Kingdom. Rigex hears of this, and becomes infuriated. He immediately boards his ship, and orders the fleet to depart to the Mushroom Kingdom. Rigex is fueled with hatred and a desperate need for revenge. These qualities turn him into a cold hearted killer. Rigex desires the death of Mario along with his friends and family. At this point, he will stop at nothing to complete his goal. He arrives at the planet, and quickly finds Peach's castle, the center of government. Rigex's commanders ask when they should fire the Superweapon, but Rigex declines. He says that the matter is personal, and that he does not seek to become a mass killer. He just wants his targets. The ships lower and begin to hover over the castle. Rigex's mothership, called the Crimson Doubt, ejects a tractor field around the castle. Rigex and a few soldiers teleport in, and kill all the Toads. Bronty is seen hiding in his office. Rigex soon confronts Peach, who is on the ground in fear. He asks Peach her name, but Peach cannot speak. Instead of killing her, Rigex takes Peach and returns to the ship. The castle is ordered to be destroyed thereafter. Meanwhile, news helicopters and drones are recording the incident. It is still early in the morning. The Mushroom Kingdom wakes up that tragic morning, only to witness fear itself. During this time, Bowser and his army utilize Airships to investigate the attack at Peach's castle. However, Mario misinterprets Bowser's scheme and attacks him. Bowser halts the Mario bros. by showing them live footage of the invasion. Mario is immediately taken back by the sight of it, and unwillingly joins Bowser in his investigation. Meanwhile, Rigex's fleet takes off to the skies above the Mushroom Kingdom. Peach is aboard the Crimson Doubt, and is being held captive. Rigex appears, and begins interrogating her. He asks Peach about Philox and the invasion that happened in 2015. However, she never spoke a word about Mario. Unfortunately, Rigex managed to break her and she revealed that she was in relations to Mario.  Her hands were then tied and she was thrown in the corner to be guarded by two soldiers. Back down on the Mushroom Kingdom, Mario and Bowser begin exploring the ruined castle. They look around at the dead Toads that lay at their feet. Mario becomes increasingly more worried when he cannot find Peach anywhere, but Luigi interjects saying that Peach must be alive if her body isn't to be found. Mario starts becoming anxious nonetheless, and lets his rage take control. Before he can inflict damage on Bowser, Luigi stops him. Unfortunately, Mario's anger takes the form of fire and he hurls a fireball at the unsuspecting Bowser. Bowser, taken back by the attack, growls at Mario and Luigi, who run out to the nearby forest. There, Luigi tries to calm down his brother who has gone insane. However, the two hear a strange noise, and then one word: "hello". Meanwhile on the Crimson Doubt, Peach manages to break free using her powers. Rigex was not in the room at the time. She quickly grabbed a guard and used him as a shield against opposing guards. After the guard had died, Peach grabbed his weapon and proceeded to kill the remaining aliens. However, it isn't long before she is apprehended by Rigex himself. Rigex then demands Peach to tell where Mario is, or he will kill her. Back down on the Mushroom Kingdom, the Overseer appears before the Mario bros. Mario and Luigi are a bit startled by his appearance, but then begin to wonder where he has been all this time. The Overseer explains that a new evil has arisen, and is under the command of an undisclosed being. Mario instantly connects it to the invasion and Peach's supposed kidnapping. The Overseer also explains that the new evil is hunting Mario down, and his connections are in grave danger. Mario asks why the Overseer is aware of this information, to which he responds by saying "I know everything." He also says that Mario and Luigi must be hidden from the force named Rigex, and that the best place is in the forests of the Leafy Kingdom. Mario disagrees with this idea, and claims he needs to rescue Peach. The Overseer tells Mario that his life is far more important than Peach's, and that there is something about him that is of great value. Without interjection, the Overseer spawns a Warp Portal and disappears. Mario and Luigi enter the portal despite the problem at hand. Back on the ship, Rigex forces Peach to spill the truth about Mario. She tells him that all she knows is that Mario is probably at the castle. Meanwhile, two of Rigex's soldiers are searching the woods. They soon come across a pile of dust and scorched earth. This is the area where the Warp Portal appeared. The soldier bio-scans the area, and traces signatures of life. The scientists aboard the Crimson Doubt come to the conclusion that Mario must have traveled through a Warp Portal to an unknown destination. Rigex becomes furious, and smashes the command console. He even goes as far as to killing his own soldier. After his fit of rage passed, he sends Peach straight to the prison quarters. The soldiers back on the ground look up as the fleet disappears into deep space. Meanwhile, Mario and Luigi appear in the Leafy Kingdom. After warping in, Mario suddenly feels weird flashbacks from the ancient civilization. His flashbacks end when he sees the destruction of the planet. Luigi is immediately taken back by this ominous event. Mario claims that he is fine, but he is ultimately unsure of what to think of the flashbacks. The bros. take a good look around, and remember the events of Philox's second invasion. They even see the old Communications Tower, which is in ruin. Suddenly, the Overseer appears. The Overseer explains that the brothers must stay in hiding until the Rigexian fleet finally arrives. However, Mario isn't very fond of this idea, as he is restless knowing Peach is with the aliens. The Overseer says that the two bros. will have to take down the fleet when they arrive with an EMP device. This device is located in one of the old foundries, as it was used to create the holographic creations. The Overseer states that someone will also need to activate it atop the ruined Communications Tower when the fleet actually arrives. Mario and Luigi then head off to the foundry, while the Overseer tends to "important" happenings. Meanwhile, the Rigexian fleet has warped to deep space. Suddenly, Rigex receives a strange call from the Elite. The Elite seems to not care about Rigex's failure in killing Mario, as it doesn't hinder the overall scheme. However, Rigex is enraged by the failure. The Elite finally reveals that he intends for Rigex to kill the Creators. He says that he will form a Warp Portal over Icenda in 48 hours that will lead Rigex to the Creator Realm. If Rigex does not comply, he will be killed. Furthermore, the Elite claims that Mario has warped to the Leafy Kingdom, and that Rigex has 48 hours to kill him. Just like that, Rigex orders the fleet to warp to the Leafy Kingdom. Back down on the planet, Mario and Luigi approach the ancient foundry. Unfortunately, Mario begins having more flashbacks as he gets nearer. The flashbacks soon become unbearable, and Mario decides to stay back. Luigi walks into the foundry on his own to search for the EMP device. However, the system in the foundry recognizes Luigi as a possible threat, and it activates the failsafe protocol. The system begins unleashing holographic Luigi's. The real Luigi manages to fight off the clones, but a robotic arm grabs him and drags Luigi into the depths of the factory. Back outside, Mario begins to have devastating flashbacks. This time, he begins hearing a voice. He also sees a man walking through fire, a foreshadowing of the future. However, the voice is manifested into the physical world sporting a real body. It looks like an amiibo, similar to the Overseer but green. The new being tells Mario that his name is the Designer, and that Mario will be the reason for the coming of evil. He explains that Mario was chosen by the Overseer to save the universe. Mario is the chosen one. Inside the foundry, the system begins talking to Luigi as he is dragged into the dark depths of the building. The system calls itself “Watchdog Program 7102” or just “Watchdog”. The Overseer actually managed to infiltrate the system and interfere with the program’s diagnostics. While the two programs compete over control of the facility, Luigi uses his psychic powers to break free of the arm and fall to the depths of the factory. Once the Overseer took control of the foundry, Watchdog diverted it’s power to a local reservoir. There, it took the form of a holographic dragon. Luigi attempts to fight it off, as the Overseer interferes and weakens it. Luigi eventually defeats the fiend. Back outside, Mario is baffled by the Designer’s bold statement. He doesn’t believe that the he’s telling the truth, and frankly, doesn’t necessarily care. All he wants is to find peach and save her from Rigex. The Designer reminds Mario that Rigex wants his blood, not Peach’s. Meanwhile, Luigi is navigated by the Overseer to the site of the EMP device. The device is actually what is helping to power the functions of the factory. Luigi rips the EMP device out of it’s socket, and proceeds to exit the factory. Mario and the Designer are still talking when Luigi arrives. As soon as he does so, the Designer vanishes. However, when the Overseer materializes, the Designer reappears and confronts him. The two argue over something the brothers don’t fully comprehend. Then, the two turn around and witness the factory roaring to life again. Out of nowhere, the dragon manifests, though this time it’s absolutely massive. At the same time, the Rigexian fleet appears. The group discusses how to handle the situation. Mario decides that he should activate the EMP atop the ruined Communication Tower while Luigi fends off against the digital creature alongside the Overseer and the Designer. Meanwhile aboard the Crimson Doubt, Rigex prepares for the descent. He’s certain he will kill Mario this time, yet anxious and inexplicably nervous about the situation. This is probably because he has a deadline and this is his last chance to avenge Philox. Back on the Leafy Kingdom, Mario begins climbing the tower. He looks up and witnesses the ships drawing nearer. Luigi on the other hand, approaches the digital dragon, who is of course Watchdog. Luigi stares with anger at the enforcer unit. Rigex is homing in on the surface of the Leafy Kingdom. His rage becomes more intense as he approaches. Mario gets to the top of the tower and waits for the fleet to get closer as Luigi begins attacking the enforcer and Rigex becomes more furious. Finally, Mario activates the EMP as the ships get even closer. It counts down from 10. Luigi and the Overseer and the Designer are fighting off the dragon and Rigex stares even more intently as the timer counts down. As the timer draws closer to zero, Mario chucks it to the fleet and jumps off as it detonates, shutting down the ships. The power goes in the fleet. Rigex is confused by this as the Crimson Doubt plummets to the ground. Mario wakes up later on. He glances around and spots the crashed ships. He slowly walks towards them. Rigex manages to get out of his own ship and walk around through the yard of crashed ships. At the same time, Mario is walking towards him. The two eventually stop and stare at each other with intense rage. Meanwhile, Luigi, the Overseer, and the Designer have successfully taken down the Watchdog Program. The Overseer states that the ships must've crashed, and that Mario could be in great danger. Luigi immediately heads off to Mario's location. Mario, although weak, confronts Rigex. Rigex immediately attacks Mario, and attempts to shoot him a few times. Mario manages to fight back, since Rigex is quite weak from the crash. In the middle of the fight, Luigi alongside the Overseer and the Designer appears. The Overseer tells Mario to stop fighting or he could be killed. Mario, of course, doesn't listen. However, Mario gets shot down by Rigex, and lands in front of Luigi. Rigex stands up and declares his mission. He tells Mario that he will kill him and his friends. Mario tries to retaliate, but cannot. Rigex then turns around and returns to his ship, weakened heavily by the fight. Meanwhile, Peach has managed to escape the jail cell after the crash. She finds a dead soldier and takes his gun. Peach then sneaks through the cold, dark corridors hoping to find an exit. After scouring the hallways and avoiding enemy soldiers, Peach manages to escape the Crimson Doubt. Outside, there are more troops on duty. Peach accidentally alarms one, and they attempt to attack her. Peach shoots the soldiers in retaliation, and they begin firing back. She eventually makes her way to the forest without being killed. During this time, Luigi has dragged Mario to a safer location. The Overseer and the Designer assess the situation at hand. Mario is unconscious. Then, Luigi spots Peach crawling from the forest with a laser gun. Peach is immediately relived to see Luigi, and quickly heals Mario. Mario wakes up, and is extremely happy to see Peach. He forgets everything else, and wishes to return home. However, the Overseer and the Designer don't agree. There is much more work to be done. Meanwhile, Rigex returns to the shipyard. His cohorts confront him, and deliver the news of Peach's escape. Hearing the news, Rigex becomes enraged and even shoots one of his troops. He quickly orders the soldiers to work on fixing the ships and getting them up and running once more. There is little time to prepare for the assault on the Creator Realm now. However, Rigex is still more interested in Mario's blood than the Creators'. Elsewhere, the Overseer explains that staying alive isn't the only thing the bros. have to do. The Designer mentions that Rigex is quite important, as he's being controlled by something far greater. Rigex must be stopped at all costs, the two say. The Overseer and the Designer know about the Elite's scheme to use Rigex to kill them, in replacement of Philox. They know that Rigex is the only one capable of doing so, and killing him would mean the end of the Elite's plans. However, Mario and Luigi are not aware of this whatsoever. Mario does not understand why he needs to kill Rigex, and doesn't necessarily want to. He says he'd rather return home and be done with the ordeal. The Overseer states that he won't let him get home by not creating a warp Portal. Mario is forced to comply, and so the group begins to tackle the assassination of Rigex. On the other hand, Rigex's ships have been fixed, and are up and running. He orchestrates a plan to kidnap Peach or Luigi in order to lure Mario in. Rigex sends a squad of troopers to ambush them. As Mario, Luigi, and Peach embark to find the alien, the platoon of soldiers attack. They end up grabbing Luigi and shooting him so he's unable to resist. Mario is also shot in the frenzy. The Overseer materializes, but is shot as well. The alien squad returns back to the Crimson Doubt with the hostage. Mario's hopes are shattered, and he goes even more insane when he realizes that the Overseer is dead. The Designer appears, and states that the Overseer is actually not dead, and that Mario will realize this with time. Confused at this statement, Mario falls back into unconsciousness. On the Crimson Doubt, Luigi is taken to Rigex. However, before he gets a chance to speak to the prisoner, Rigex receives a call from the Elite. The Elite restates the mission to Rigex. But, things have changed, and the Elite cannot successfully create a portal to the Creator Realm. However, he knows that Peach is the key. Peach has a garment that is an ultra powerful Warp Stone found at the center of the Mushroom Kingdom. The Elite orders Rigex to obtain the crystal and activate it. He also tells Rigex that he was lying about the killer of Philox. Rigex at first doesn't believe him, and continues to think that Mario is the culprit. Furthermore, the Elite states that the actual murderers of Philox were the Creators, who killed him in retaliation during his attack. Rigex again questions the Elite, to which he responds, "I know, I know because I was one of them." Meanwhile, Peach heals Mario and reanimates him. The Designer also appears once more, telling Mario that Luigi is gone. Mario falls back into the deep recesses of regret and depression. The Designer also tries to explain to Mario the mission to rescue him and stop Rigex once and for all, but Mario isn't listening. Peach comforts him as he experiences a mental breakdown. Meanwhile, the Rigexian fleet warps to Icenda or the Freezeflame Kingdom immediately. On the Crimson Doubt, Rigex is tormenting Luigi. He tries to torture Luigi's mind by tearing it up with harsh emotions. This of course, affects Luigi's psychic abilities, so that he's unable to cause any harm. Rigex also tells his prisoner of the plans to kill the gods. Back at the Leafy Kingdom, Mario and Peach begin their search for Luigi and Rigex, when the Designer appears. He states that the ships have taken off again. Mario is appalled by this, and begins panicking. However, the Designer also says that the fleet has warped to the Freezeflame Kingdom, where he thinks Rigex's station may be. The Designer tells Mario that he has to stop Rigex no matter what, and Mario agrees. He creates a Warp Portal, and disappears. Mario and Peach jump in. Meanwhile, a small group of recon ships depart to the surface of Icenda. They successfully land at a space port on the icy planet. Rigex hops out of the scout craft with two guards holding Luigi. Rigex tells his prisoner that plans have changed, but also that Luigi isn't free just yet. Knowing of Luigi's mysterious psychic abilities, Rigex forces him to locate Peach with his mind. Luigi successfully finds her, and is forced to tell Rigex the location. Meanwhile, Mario and Peach warp to Icenda. They appear in a cold, snowy forest. The Designer also appears, and tells Mario about the task. He says he does not know exactly what Rigex is doing or if he even still wants Mario's head. All he knows is that it is linked to an extraordinary being that will deliver great misfortune upon the known universe. The Designer says to hurry, for time is limited. Mario though, wants to save Luigi and kill Rigex to end the terrible ordeal. They head out through the forest in hopes of finding any sign of the fleet. After traveling for a while, something mysterious materializes. Mario turns around to see Rigex holding Peach in the air. Rigex says: "I told you, but you didn't listen. Now, she dies." Mario, enraged by the sight of Rigex, engulfs in a burning ball of flame and hatred. He fires a pure blast of inferno at Rigex, knocking him over and dropping Peach. The two enter a bloody duel. Just as Mario is about to be killed, Peach gets up and knocks Rigex back. Mario returns to the fight and resumes his assault. Back at the space port, Luigi is visited by the Designer. The Designer heals Luigi's mental damage, and he's able to utilize his psychic powers to fight off the troops. Eventually, Luigi is able to get in a scout ship. The fight in the snow continues. Mario is nearly killed several times, with Peach helping as well. The Designer has taken over the controls of the ship, and it takes off. Two other scout ships follow behind. Mario and Peach are still fighting the deadly duel. The victorious will survive. Luigi's scout ship is speeding through the icy winds, with two ships shooting from behind. The Designer maneuvers evasively, and shoots both ships from behind. Peach gets whacked in the face and plummets to the ground. Mario tries to fight back, but is nearly shot. Rigex laughs maniacally. However, Mario gets up and kicks Rigex into a nearby tree. Then, Rigex fires at Mario's hand. He also shoots at a tree behind Peach, rendering her immobile. Meanwhile, Luigi closes in on Mario's location. The Designer states that Mario is in trouble, and fires two lasers down to the approximate location of the fight. Just as Rigex is preparing to kill Mario and Peach, the lasers hit the space between them, dividing the two sides. Rigex is thrown backwards, and he groans in agony. Then, Luigi's stolen ship appears above as Peach is attempting to heal Mario. The tractor beam shines on the two, and Peach screams. They are teleported in the ship. Inside, Luigi runs to their aid. Peach is immediately relieved when she sees Luigi and realizes that the ship is not an opposition. When Mario wakes up, he is mad because he states that he could've killed Rigex The Designer responds by saying that Mario's life is far more important than Rigex's death, and that there is something more sinister on the horizon. Mario asks where they are going, and the Designer responds by saying that they are going to the Crimson Doubt. To end the Elite's mission. Back in the snowy forest, Rigex rises up. He's in extreme agony, yet indescribable hatred and regret. Realizing his ultimate failure, Rigex seeks to redeem himself. He needs to return to the Crimson Doubt and kill Mario. Kill Peach. And kill the Creators. Vengeance is the final option. As he is staring at the mothership, a tractor beam appears overhead. Meanwhile on the Crimson Doubt, the Designer leaves Mario, Luigi, and Peach to stop the evil force. He says that the time is not right for him. Then, the trio begins to scour the hallways in search for the mysterious evil. However, the force came to them. The entire ship lit up with the echo of a dark, howling voice. It taunts the group, and tells them that they have fallen into a trap. He says it's the final step in universal domination. Everything is in place. The Creators will die, it says. Finally, Mario, Luigi, and Peach make it to the command room. There, Rigex is facing an ominous, orange screen. It seems to be where the voice is emitting from. Rigex turns around, and tells Mario about the Elite. He explains how the Elite has lead him to Mario in search for eternal revenge. Mario is in fear and hatred listening to Rigex's story. Rigex then explains that Mario is not actually the culprit of Phlox's death, but rather it was the Creators. The Elite interferes and states that the Creators are devils that are controlling everything, in attempt to persuade Mario to killing them. Rigex then tells Mario that there's only one way to get to the Creator Realm, and it is through a Mushroom Kingdom-born Warp Crystal. Furthermore, there's one on the ship. It's in Peach's chest piece. Mario suddenly realizes the Elite's true identity, but is cut off by Rigex. Rigex announces that he will kill the three intruders in the name of eternal revenge. Mario, Luigi, and Peach attempt to fight back, but Luigi is ultimately thrown against a wall. Peach is nearly shot and is on the floor while the Elite taunts Mario. Rigex and Mario are locked in the final showdown, until Mario is cast down. Rigex appears over him with a gun pointed in his face. In the final moments, Mario's consciousness is interrupted by the Overseer. He is now in a strange, bright area. Mario is extremely confused at this, and has absolutely no idea what is really happening. Both the Designer and the Overseer appear, and talk to Mario. They say that he might not believe them, but there's only one way to find out.

The two tell Mario that they are the Creators, and that they can do anything their own realm. And Mario, Mario was chosen by the Overseer out of fear that the universe will one day be tormented by the mind of the final Creator. They say to trust them, and Mario wakes up. In that instant, the world lights in a great orange light with the Elite screaming in agony. The light changes to blue as Rigex is knocked backwards. It's the Creators. The Elite attempts to regain control of the Crimson Doubt, but is constantly rejected by the two main Creators. The Elite is enraged beyond comprehension, as he had been subjected to tremendous torture induced by the other Creators in the past. Rigex is shown attempting to regain his footing, but failing. The Crimson Doubt is heading straight for the large fractured rocks floating around the planet. Rigex finally gets up, and curses the Creators, swearing revenge for the killing of his brother, Philox. Mario looks at Rigex, and immediately understands. The Creators are threatening each other in the background. Everything goes white. Mario slowly opens his eyes. The world is blurry, and a few bodies lay on a large, floating rock. The rock is glowing with heat, as with the gases dispersed from the core of the planet floating gently to space. Rigex is already gaining his footing. The Crimson Doubt is in ruin. Mario slowly rises, and faces his adversary. The two enter a final battle, for glory and for revenge. The battle starts out slow, as the two fighters are weak. But, it soon picks up and becomes a bloody duel. Mario is ultimately defeated, and cast down. However, Rigex no longer has intentions of killing Mario. Now, he is impelled to finally avenge his brother. He lifts Peach into the air, and stabs her in the garnet. Mario screams as she falls into the core of the planet. The garnet is activated, and forms a Warp Portal. Everything is sucked in. In the portal, Rigex stands up. Nobody else is in sight. He has a powerful yet depressing monologue just as the portal opens up at the Creator Realm. Here, the world is bright and it is in a massive room. Rigex begins to explore the gargantuan place with fear in his cold heart. Finally, he encounters Mario, who is encompassed in a golden sphere. Mario tells Rigex that he can't do anything to stop him, and that Rigex has no power. He also says he's a cold killer; no different from his deceased brother. Then, Mario asks if Rigex still wants to kill the Creators, and just like that, the Overseer and Designer appear. Rigex, at this point, is confused and quite appalled. The Creators morph into their true forms and Rigex slowly steps backwards. Then, the two giants attack. After being badly beaten, Mario rises among the Creators, and smashes Rigex back into the Normal Realm. Mario wakes up. He's in a familiar forest. He gets up, and looks around. It's home, the Mushroom Kingdom. Mario soon spots Luigi, who is also on the ground. He rushes to Luigi's aid. He rises, and the two reconcile. After mourning the loss of the Princess, a group of Mushroom Kingdom citizens gather. The Overseer also appears in the back, watching over Mario from a distance, as he's always done. Back at Icenda, Rigex is crawling on the fractured, floating chunks of land. He's nearly drained of all life, and completely devoid of any soul. Just then, the Center of the Universe appears in front of Rigex, with a pathway forming. Rigex enters the supermassive structure. Inside, the Elite is terribly disappointed and discretely enraged. He talks to Rigex about his failure, but Rigex doesn't necessarily listen. He tells the Elite that he is not a killer, like his brother, and proceeds to shut down the security terminals, freeing the tainted Creator. Then, he shoots himself as the Elite rushes out.

Interlude: When the Creators fully connected the Normal Realm to the Warp Zone, they chose a being to guard it. This being would be the first ever Chosen One. They also chose a being to help the Chosen One in his tasks. This being was Sans, a powerful individual who was tasked with defending the Normal Realm and guarding the Warp Zone at all costs. Sans controlled the Warp Zone with his helper, Papyrus, who had the ability to distort space-time. Sans was incredibly powerful, and used his god-like abilities to destroy Dark Matter Beings that would attempt to discover the Normal Realm. After billions of years of controlling the Warp Zone, Sans was driven insane. He would travel to other dimensions only to utterly destroy them. After destroying the dimensions, Sans was blessed with the powers of the souls of the lost universes. While Sans was doing this, Papyrus secretly managed to close off the Dark Matter Curse's access to the Warp Zone. However, Sans found out about this, and dragged Papyrus to a random dimension. At this point, the two had become crippled skeletons. In the arbitrary dimension, which was called the Underworld Realm, Sans absorbed all of Papyrus's powers. He later brainwashed Papyrus to prevent him from leaving. From that day forward, Sans and Papyrus lived a sorrow life in a shack in the Underworld Realm.

Megalomaniac: Now, thanks to the energy of the dead Nightmare Dimension, a rip to the Underworld Realm is formed. Junior and Koopa enter, only to find Sans and Papyrus. After meeting for the first time, the two kids suggest that they return to the surface. Upon doing so, Junior and Koopa meet the soul of the Nightmare Dimension. The soul warns the two that Sans and Papyrus are evil before disappearing. The strangers take off saying their goodbyes to Junior and Koopa. Days later, Junior meets Sans again and the two head out to buy Mario Kart 8 Deluxe. During their journey, Sans creates the game with a strange power. Junior ignores it and returns home. Some time in the future in a parallel universe, Death Bird takes over and destroys the Mushroom Kingdom. He sends a robot to the past to prevent Mario from ever forming a resistance. The day the robot appears, Mario and Luigi are doing their daily routine. However, after encountering the robot, they flee. Mario is hit in the consequential duel, and Luigi sets up a missile launcher in order to fend off against the robot. Unfortunately, the missile launcher fails to do any damage against the robot, and Luigi is beat up. Mario then musters the strength to shoot the robot in its eye using its laser gun just in time. Meanwhile, Dry Bones talks to Junior about his experience with Koopa. According to him, Koopa had used a Warp Crystal to teleport into the Warp Zone. The two kids immediately think Koopa is insane. However, Koopa returns and takes Junior and Dry Bones into the Warp Zone with him. There, he explains the existence of the alternate universes. He also explains how he was originally from another realm that was destroyed by an all powerful being, the same being that may be responsible for the destruction of the Nightmare Realm and others. He says he has to investigate the problem. Meanwhile, Mario and Luigi are sent on a fake quest to obtain "rainbow" by Papyrus. It turns out it's a trap to catch the two since Papyrus has the strange desire to catch humans. During this time, Junior and Koopa enter a tournament for the game Arms, and ultimately win. However, during a rematch, they fail and Mr. Hiroshima wins. Days later, Nabbit comes to the realization that he has no friends. Blaming Junior, Koopa, and Dry Bones for his problems, he sets out to take his revenge. That day, Nabbit snipes Junior with an air-soft gun. After Junior and Dry Bones flee into the basement, Nabbit follows in pursuit, though this time with a real gun. In the darkest part of the basement, Dry Bones and Junior wait in agonizing terror. Nabbit eventually arrives, and chaos ensues. The battle is brought upstairs where Junior and Nabbit battle to the death. Just as Nabbit is about to surrender, Sans, the great destroyer, flings the Nightmare Dimension soul into the murderous kid. Nabbit becomes charged with an evil energy. However, this was a mere trick in order for Sans to gain the kids' trust. Sans appears and saves them from Nabbit, expelling the soul that once infected him. A week later, Kamek accidentally causes a Donkey Kong stage to appear in the sky. In order to stop it, he alongside Bowser create the Jumpman 9000, a robot built to defeat Donkey Kong. Upon successfully doing so, the Jumpman 9000 is destroyed. Later, Nabbit becomes friends with the kids once more. One day, Nabbit and Junior decide to surf the deep web. There, they discover that they can hire hitmen. Nabbit hires a hitman to kill Dry Bones, much to Junior's disagreement. The two immediately rush to Koopa and Dry Bones' house in order to protect them. However, the hitman appears and it's none other than White Yoshi. White Yoshi attempts to assassinate Nabbit, but the kids escape through a Warp Portal just in time. Later, the YouTube Dimension is destroyed by Sans. One day, Junior runs into the soul of the YouTube Dimension, and it asks Junior for help before disappearing. After an argument with Koopa about Nabbit, Junior rushes to his room and falls asleep. That night, he is visited by the same soul. The soul tells Junior that he's being controlled by Sans. The YouTube soul then asks Junior to help revitalize it by recreating a scene that happened two years ago where the kids fought each other with ink. The next day, Junior gathers his friends and the ink battle begins. However, it's cut short by the appearance of the soul. This time, the soul states that the attempts to revitalize it were futile. It then disappears into nothingness as Koopa reveals that he knows what is happening. Meanwhile, Mario gets a call from White Yoshi, who says to meet in England. There, White Yoshi tells Mario to kill Nabbit, or there'd be consequences. Mario tries to secretly disobey White Yoshi's orders thereafter. The next week, Luigi is drawn to an abandoned house next door where he is kidnapped. The following day, Toadsworth warns Mario of Luigi's kidnapping and Mario promptly investigates. At the house, Mario discovers strange things like sentient toys and a ghostly figure. Upstairs, he finds Luigi taped to the wall. However, an alien is guarding over him. This alien is called a Mook, and it hails from another dimension. This dimension is controlled by Giygas, a terribly evil life form. But even this being is scared of the dimension-destroying god being. Giygas had sent the Mook to kidnap somebody capable of being able to defeat this being. However, it is revealed by the Mook that Giygas was once weary of Mario and Luigi, knowing of their powers. He once tried to destroy the two, but his attempts were futile. After hearing the story, Mario decides to take Luigi and abscond. Unfortunately, the Mook fires a psionic blast but Mario frees Luigi nonetheless. After being freed, Luigi destroys the Mook once and for all. Meanwhile, Koopa is attempting to solve the mystery of the dimension souls when Nabbit comes. Koopa and Nabbit hate each other the most, seeing as Nabbit is scared of Koopa's nature and Koopa feels threatened by Nabbit. Junior, feeling awkward, heads to his room. Unfortunately, a battle ensues and the two beat each other to death. Eventually, Koopa wins and Nabbit accepts defeat, knowing that he hadn't been a good person. A few weeks later, Wario leaves Waluigi behind due to a dispute. He eventually finds Sans and Papyrus on the side of the road doing nothing. Mario befriends Sans, and the two end up robbing a supermarket. However, the plan fails and Wario lashes out on Sans. The two try again, but this time it's a bank. Sans volunteers to lift Wario up onto the roof and stay behind. As Wario enters the bank, the alarms go off and the police arrive. Sans tells the cops that Wario is inside, betraying him. Unfortunately, Wario is unable to form an atomic fart and kill the police. Just in time, Waluigi appears and blows up the cops with a rocket launcher. He then destroys the opening to the safe, allowing the two to steal the gold. Sans returns to Papyrus, and life goes back to normal. Days later, due to a rip in the Warp Zone, a Metroid egg from SR388 appears in the forest. Kamek accidentally lets the baby Metroid free, where it roams the backyard. It eventually feeds on Dry Bones, albeit for a short period of time. Regardless, Dry Bones becomes insane. Kamek then arrives and creates a weapon to destroy the Metroid. During a final confrontation, Kamek misses several shots before handing the gun off to Junior. Junior then kills the Metroid in one go. After healing Dry Bones, Kamek tells Junior to hide the body and forget that anything ever happened in order to defend against the government. Days later, Nabbit is kidnapped by Dry Bowser and possessed by hallucinogenic glasses. The glasses show psychotic images of Nabbit's greatest weakness: Koopa. While Junior, Dry Bones, and Koopa are outside, Nabbit arrives. Nabbit immediately begins fighting the kids, as instructed by Dry Bowser. Inside his mind, Nabbit tries to fight Koopa, until he realizes that his fears are his own constructs inside his mind. He kills himself in his head, which destroys the evil part of him. A flurry of psychedelic images pass before the glasses are destroyed and Nabbit returns to normal. Meanwhile, Luigi starts a vlogging channel and tries to film a vlog. Unfortunately, it goes wrong and Luigi ends up being kidnapped by criminals. After escaping, Luigi then fights off aliens but they end up destroying a house. Later, Luigi is hit by a cannonball from Dry Bowser's ship, a foreshadowing for what's to come. A few weeks later, Super Mario Odyssey is released. However, as Mario is about to get the game, Kamek's spell misfires and hits Mario, turning him into a dinosaur. Kamek says that there is only one way to undo the spell, and that is to obtain three power moons hidden throughout the Mushroom Kingdom. The first is in New Donk City, the second is in Tostarena, and the third is in the Steam Gardens. After obtaining all three, Mario is reverted back to normal. Finally, Dry Bowser invades once more. Unfortunately, Kamek had secretly been working for the dry Koopa and he was ordered to neutralize Bowser. Dry Bowser arrives and successfully apprehends Junior and Dry Bones. As Dry Bowser proceeds to beat up the children, Kamek explains his story to Bowser. He explains how he once served Dry Bowser, but was left on the streets after he was defeated. He explains how he was taken in by Bowser and how he became loyal to him. But then Kamek explains how he ran into debt and was forced to work for Septailus once more. Kamek leaves Bowser behind and leaves. Meanwhile Koopa teleports in and throws a Warp Crystal at Dry Bowser, burning him inside the heat of the Warp Portal. Bowser falls to the ground and cries as he watches Kamek disappear into the distance. The next day, Bowser is talking with Junior about Kamek's disappearance. At the same time, Koopa ends up teleporting to a strange location in the Normal Realm. There, he finds Papyrus tied up and Sans nearby. Koopa looks at the scene in confusion before getting knocked out by Sans. Meanwhile, Bowser finishes his talk with Junior and so Junior runs off to his room and cries. While Koopa is gone, Dry Bones goes for a walk in the woods and thinks about his dad. But while he's walking, he spots Koopa on the ground.

Koopa is tied up and tells Dry Bones to run as fast as he can. Scared out of his mind, Dry Bones sprints away as Sans teleports in. He sprints all the way to Junior's house and barges in. There, he warns Junior of what he saw. The two try to return to the forest to look for Koopa, but there's no luck. He had disappeared. Meanwhile, Mario and Luigi head out to find Sans after being alerted by the Overseer. They find him in the middle of nowhere with Koopa and Papyrus tied around a tree. Dry Bones and Junior appear also. Sans then turns around and explains his story and his motives. The heroes of course try to talk Sans out of his insanity, but it's no use. Sans calls upon the Dimension Souls he had captured, and ingests their power. In a blinding transformation, Sans becomes the Creation, a horrific amalgamate of unexplainable parts. The Designer and the Overseer appear, but are unable to stop it. Mario tries to get close, but is zapped by electricity. As the heroes begin backing away, Nabbit appears. Nabbit claims he knows how to stop the Creation, but needs help getting inside first. He asks the heroes to distract the lightning zappers while he makes his way in. The plan works out, but Nabbit neglects to tell the group what'll happen inside. Once in the Creation, Nabbit pulls out the Silver Bullet. Sans tries engulfing him, but the Nabbit shoots the gun and the Creation is destroyed. However, Nabbit dies with it. Immediately after, Koopa and Papyrus wake up to hear of the news. Junior runs away and Papyrus turns in shame. Mario yells at the Creators in anger and frustration, seeing as they did nothing. Weeks later, a funeral is held for Nabbit. Barely anybody attends. Strangely, Mario attends the funeral and after it is done, the Overseer appears. He tells Mario why he couldn't stop the Creation, and Mario reluctantly understands. In the end, Dry Bones, Koopa, and Junior are shown supporting each other in remembrance of Nabbit.

MUSHROOM KINGDOM HISTORY

Conception: After arriving at the new blank universe, the Creators began constructing planets and stars from their unnatural capabilities. The Overseer created a solar system that included a special planet called Natura. This planet would later become known as the Mushroom Kingdom. However, the Overseer made the planet almost entirely out of a special kind of stone called Warp Crystal. When heated, Warp Crystals form a Warp Portal. The Mushroom Kingdom is the only place in the entire universe where Warp Crystals are created naturally. The Overseer figured that the beings would want to explore the universe and other dimensions, so he purposely provided them with that opportunity. The Mushroom Kingdom became the Overseer's prized possession, and kept the Warp Crystals a secret from the other Creators. However, the Elite found out but did not tell anyone. He provided his own planet with Warp Crystals of his own.

Paradise: The Overseer made the Mushroom Kingdom as fertile and beautiful as possible. He as obsessed with nature and the idea of a completely natural environment. The Overseer quickly formed his first sentient species, the humans. The humans were modeled after the real humans, the Creators themselves. The new humans populated the new world, and it became a paradise. After creating several million  animal species, the Overseer decided to make another sentient species like the humans. He created an intelligent reptile specimen called a Yoshi. The Yoshis were the Overseer's second greatest creation. The two main species lived in harmony on the Mushroom Kingdom, until disaster struck.

Conquered: After the creation of the new universe, the Creators decided to become guardians. They headed to a gateway realm between the Normal Realm and the Human Realm, called the Creator Realm. However, the Elite did not want to go as he was secretly controlling the Leafy Kingdom. During this time, many species in the new dimension thrived and grew, including the humans and Yoshis. One planet, called Keppa or the Palm Kingdom, housed a species called the Koopas. (See Koopa History) This planet was created by the Designer. One clan, called the Bowser Clan, left the planet after losing a massive war against their rival clan. The Bowser Clan eventually landed at the Mushroom Kingdom. They began setting up their new home in western Mushroom Kingdom, an uninhabited lava land. The new Koopas originally thought that the Mushroom Kingdom was deserted, until they encountered the humans riding Yoshis. The Koopas instinctively killed them from their castles, starting a massive war. The war ended up killing most of the humans, and hasn't ended since it's conception. However, most of the war has ended, but humans and Koopas still hate each other.

Arrival: After the Elite was imprisoned by the other two Creators, he lost all connection to his own planet he had been controlling. (See Leafy Kingdom History) This started a massive war on the Leafy Kingdom, destroying it in the process. Thankfully, a ship of Leafy Kingdom inhabitants managed to escape. They eventually arrived on the Mushroom Kingdom. These were the Toads. The Toads quickly began populating the new planet. They worked alongside humans, and soon outnumbered them. The Toads even fought against the Koopas. One of these Toads was named Apricus Toadsworth. Apricus Toadsworth however, had a strange curse that allowed him to live without a body. He has survived for millions of years by possessing his own body. Toadsworth has gone insane over and over again from living for so long.

Royalty: During the Koopa Wars, the humans began forming societies and cities. The rulers became known as the Royal Family, or the Toadstools. One day, a gift was given to the family by a merchant. It was an exceptionally powerful Warp Crystal that gave the user healing abilities. It became tradition to wear the Sacred Stone, as was called. Only the queen was allowed to wear it, and it was passed down from generation to generation. However, the kings of the Koopas wanted the stone for themselves. They began kidnapping the queen time and time again, with the king sending his forces to save her. The Sacred Stone was slowly forgotten, and ended up being a traditional piece of jewelry. After the Koopa Wars died down, larger settlements were constructed and technology advanced. By the 1900s, there were massive cities and towns all over the Mushroom Kingdom. The Toads, humans, and Yoshis all lived in peace. There were continuous attacks from the Koopas, but it wasn't as major as before.

Outnumbered: Soon, the Toads took complete control of the planet. They were the driving species of the Mushroom Kingdom. The humans became less prominent, and the Koopas continued to wage war from their fiery home land. Eventually the civilization became technologically and culturally advanced. However, the Royal Family soon became obstructed. In 1993, the king and queen had a daughter named Peach Toadstool, or Princess Peach. However, Peach's parents died only a year after her birth. A Yoshi sub-species creature named Bronty took their place, and became the leader of the Mushroom Kingdom. Unfortunately, this ended up causing the government to be extremely corrupt and broken. Also in 1993, a man by the name of Mario was born, alongside his brother Luigi the next year. However, the two were snatched from their families by the Overseer and given special powers. They were then dropped in the middle of nowhere, Yoshi's Island.

Kidnapped: A descendant of the great Bowser Clan is born in 1983, named Tyranus Bowser. After killing his brother over a decade later, he takes the western Mushroom Kingdom for himself. Tyranus wages war on the Mushroom Kingdom, and even kidnaps Peach. At the age of 15, Mario ends up rescuing the princess time and time again, granting him fame and the affection of Peach.

Geography: The Overseer modeled the Mushroom Kingdom very similarly to Earth, the planet that granted life to the original humans. The country of the Mushroom Kingdom is one of the most prominent continents and is shaped like the United States. There are three main zones of the Mushroom Kingdom continent. There is the eastern zone, the mid zone, and the western zone. The eastern Mushroom Kingdom is currently home to Mario and Bowser. It is filled with forests and housing developments. The main city is Philadelphia. After the second invasion of the Mushroom Kingdom, a national forest in the eastern Mushroom Kingdom was turned into the Star Wastelands by the wreckage of the Cold Fathom among other Philoxian ships. The mid Mushroom Kingdom is mainly farmland and flat plains. Up north there are several large mountains, including Silver Mountain. Silver Mountain is a deposit of raw Warp Crystal that merges with titanium in the rock, forming the extremely rare Meta Silver. This metal is used in the Silver Bullet. The western part of the Mushroom Kingdom is home to deserts and volcanic mountains. This area is where the Koopa empire formerly resided. However, it was destroyed in a great civil war. There are a total of seven continents on the planet. The second continent is South Mushroom Kingdom. (Not part of the Mushroom Kingdom continent itself) This continent is mostly jungle. The next continent is the Bone Dry Dunes. This area is home to the Dry Koopa race. It is a harsh desert that harbors life for the most rugged Koopa race. Next is Northern Plains. This continent has many plains and is situated north. Its main country is England. Another continent is the Great East. This continent has jungles and mountains. Its main countries are Japan, China, India, and Korea. Finally, there is the Outback Wastes. This continent is mainly a wasteland after a war between the Outback Koopas and some Toads took place. It ended in an apocalypse covering the land. The main city is New Sydney. There are several prominent oceans on the planet of the Mushroom Kingdom. The Deep Ocean is situated between the Mushroom Kingdom and the Bone Dry Dunes and the Northern Plains. The next ocean is the Tropic Ocean, which is situated on the opposite side of the Mushroom Kingdom. This ocean is home to many islands, including Yoshi's Island. Up north is the Frozen Ocean, and beneath the Great East is the Master Gulf.

KOOPA HISTORY

Construction: One of the Designer's greatest creations was his planet called Keppa. This planet was known as the Plasma Kingdom by Mushroom Kingdom astronomers. Keppa was mostly water with some tropical islands and volcanoes. The Designer created his own species to live there called the Koopas. The Koopas were turtle-like creatures who craved war. The Koopas' culture revolved around their king, who was slightly biologically different from the others. The Designer had granted royal blood with special powers like fire breath and lightning powers. Royal blood also were much bigger, had giant gaping mouths, and had a spiky shell. The Koopas also loved lava and believed it to be a symbol of power. They built massive castles and learned how to make death weapons. Spikes were used to decorate everything, alongside an emblem of a clan. The Designer also populated Keppa with creatures like the Chain Chomp, the Goomba, the Lakitu, and more. These side species were utilized by the Koopas for war. Intelligent Koopas learned how to harness the powers of the royal line. They had found trace Warp Crystals in the earth, and used them to harness certain powers in a staff. Some of the royal Koopas went rogue and slowly lost their powers. They became powerhouses during wars. The most important invention was that of the airship. Airships were literally flying fortresses that acted as mobile command stations or arial attacks.

Rivalry: Wars rage across the surface of Keppa. Eventually, two main clans form. The first clan is known as the Galaxia Clan. It's main colors became purple, black, and yellow. They were extremely powerful and controlled by the Galaxia family. They were the first to discover Warp Crystals The Galaxia were extremely powerful and notorious for being dark and shady. The second clan was known as the Bowser Clan. This clan was controlled by the Bowser family. They sported green, yellow, and red colors. This clan invented the airships. The two main clans slowly became bitter rivals as they grew and grew. Finally, a war struck the planet of Keppa. The clans clashed, and the planet became a war zone. Ultimately, the Galaxia army began defeating the Bowser army with their superior technology. The Bowser Clan was forced to retreat. They used their newly built star craft, the Emerald Tyrant, to escape Keppa. The Bowser Clan later landed on the Mushroom Kingdom where they would rebuild and conquer again.

Intergalactic Age: After the great war, the Galaxia Clan conquered all of Keppa. They began building massive star crafts to explore the final frontier. Their ships became flying cities that were powered by Warp Crystals. However, the Galaxia Clan needed more crystals for their ships. They traveled to the furthest reaches of space, conquering planets here and there. Unfortunately, the Philoxian Army arrived at the Keppa in 1978. They immediately glassed the planet, turning it into a black, burnt wasteland. Lava oozed throughout the land, and the sky became purple. All that remained was the fortified army of the Galaxia Clan. However, they were crippled and not as powerful as before. Thirty years later, the Galaxia army regains it's footing and begins traversing the stars once more, in hopes of finding the attackers that destroyed their planet.

Geography: Before the destruction of Keppa, the land was separated into two sides. There was the Bowser Territory in the Western Hemisphere, and the Galaxia Territory in the Eastern Hemisphere. The planet was mostly oceanic with small islands dotting the globe. The Bowser territory and the Galaxia Territory had the largest islands. The Bowser Territory contained the Cartin Archipelago, while the Galaxia Territory had the landmass of Volbonia, the only major landmass on Keppa. In between the two sides were the Contested Islands, a land where many battles took place. Most of the islands were situated on the equator, where the water was shallowest. This strip of islands was called the War Fields by the Koopas. North and south of this strip were the locations of outposts on small islands. Far north was the Rainbow Reef, the most beautiful of all places on Keppa. Far south was Baratin Cove, a dark and mysterious island shrouded in legend. On the other side of the planet was an ocean known as the Great Atlas Ocean. This area was vastly unexplored, but some Koopas claim that there are deadly creatures that thrive in the Atlas. The Bowser Fortress is situated on Azken Island of the Cartin Archipelago. Azken Island is volcanic and harsh, much like Warren Ridge, the location of Galaxia Fortress. Warren Ridge is close to the edge of Volbonia, and it overlooks the sea. The rest of Volbonia is also mostly unexplored, with it being a vast jungle. Volbonia is home to a large Goomba population. After Philox's invasion, the world became a charred wasteland. The Galaxia clan survived in their ship called the Bearer of Plasma. Back on the surface, the remaining Koopas rebuilt Galaxia Fortress in the Obsidian Wastes, a land in the Eastern Hemisphere on the equator.

LEAFY KINGDOM HISTORY

Creation: The planet known as the Leafy Kingdom, or Remorius, was created by the Creator known by the name of the Elite. The Elite soon began to desire order and complete control, so he designed Remorius in his own image. The Elite constructed massive metropolises across the surface of his world. Soon enough, the entire planet was covered in a high tech urban environment. An artificial atmosphere had to be created to sustain life. Speaking of which, the Elite designed his own sentient species to live on Remorius. This new species was called the Toads. The Toad civilization was kept in check by the Elite. He constructed massive foundries that produced holographic enforcers. These enforcers roamed the streets of the massive metropolis, and were programmed by the Elite. It is possible to reprogram them. The Toads were also forced to worship the Elite, who appeared regularly on the planet at holographic displays.

Chaos: After thousands of years of control, the Elite did not appear one day. The holographic constructs shut down. This was the moment in which the Elite was captured by the other Creators for severe misconduct. A few days went by on Remorius, and people began to freak out. The world quickly erupted in chaos. Two main sides were born from the heat of the global anarchy. The New Federation of Reformation, and the Surviving Worshippers. They became known as simply the New Federation and the Worshippers. The Federation fought for a new government and believed the Elite was a scheme created by the other side, and the Worshippers believed in the Elite with faith and fought in his image. The two sides battled a bloody war. Nuclear explosives shook the planet. Crime sprees raged on the streets. Survival became a struggle. The world was tearing itself apart.

Revolution: A man by the name of Cornelius Toadsworth had done extensive research on the Elite before the crisis. He was the only one who realized the Elite's true identity, and his control of Remorius. Cornelius believed that the Elite was a supernatural being who controlled the universe. He realized that the world may be doomed, and set up a covert underground program that was designed as an escape from Remorius. Cornelius and several followers managed to continuously evade the enforcers, and construct a secret colonization space craft. This space craft was a makeshift cargo ship called the Dying Breath. However, as soon as the insurrection crisis began, he put his plan into action. Cornelius lived in the city of Capioppia, a Worshipper controlled area. He planned for his three children to board the space ship and head to a new planet. His children were Nevedia Toadsworth, Frederia Toadsworth, and Apricus Toadsworth. At birth, his two sons were secretly blessed by the Overseer. They were blessed with the ability to wander the physical world after death. Cornelius escaped the city with his children in an attempt to reach the space ship.

Tragedy: The Toadsworth family arrived at a bullet train in order to make it to the location of the Dying Breath ship. However, the train was targeted by Worshipper radicals, who had controlled the city. Halfway to the location, the train crashed. Frederia was unfortunately thrown off of the transportation train an down to streets below. Cornelius ultimately made the decision to continue on foot without Frederia. The Toadsoworths evaded the wrath of the insurrectionists on the streets of Capioppia. They made it to the site by the skim of their teeth. However, the airspace was controlled by Worshippers and the ship was unable to lift off. Several Toads hopped on board, risking their lives to escape the dying planet. In order to save the Dying Breath, Nevedia Toadsworth sacrificed her life to man an Anti Air gun in order to clear the airspace for the Dying Breath to take off. Only Apricus Toadsworth made it on board. Cornelius stayed behind, as he felt it was his duty to die alongside the planet. The Dying Breath departed Remorius, and headed to an unknown location. The ship entered a Warp Portal, and jumped to the planet of Natura, or the Mushroom Kingdom. The Toads quickly populated the planet. Apricus Toadsworth lived for millions of years due to his blessing.

Survival: Frederia Toadsworth woke several hours later. He was situated at the very bottom of an alley way, below the rails far above. Frederia was forced to comply to the new way of life in the rugged war zone of the streets of Capioppia. Crimes were scattered throughout. Bombs dropped, and finally, the Federation arrived. Frederia Toadsworth had to take action, or he would be terminated. He joined the Worshippers forces in order to survive. Frederia met a man named Androth, who took him in and aided his survival. Frederia was sent on several missions that could have ended his life, but miraculously didn't. One mission in particular involved him setting up a nuclear device that would destroy Capioppia, bringing the Federation down with it. Frederic refuses, and kills Androth. After the incident, Frederia went rogue for a while until he joined the Federation. After being stationed as infantry and surviving, he was placed in a top secret cryogenics program. Frederia was placed in a cryo-tube along with many other volunteers. The pods weren't scheduled to open for over a million years. However, after the time passed, only Frederia survived. The other pods didn't open, suffocating the other subjects. Frederia took a look at the world for the first time in a million years. The cities were completely erased. Only forests remained. Frederia was one of the last Toads living on Remorius. He set up a shack where he studied the mysteries of the universe, including Warp Portals and the mysterious Creators. When the Philoxian empire arrived, he went to work collecting data from them. Frederia Toadsworth met his fate when Philox blasted him with extreme electrical powers. However, his soul lived on in the physical realm as a result of the Overseer's blessing.

Geography: Before the war, Remorius was split up into eight sectors, each representing a different hemisphere. There was Sector A, Sector B, Sector C, and so on. Every square inch of the planet was covered in metropolis. The large province of Capioppia was located on the equatorial line in Sector B. North of the city was the Cryo Freezing Center. Far south of the city was the Life Generation Domes, a plain of rocks where massive domes held high concentrations of plant life. These domes were used to create oxygen for the planet. Nearby was a Worship Platform, an area where every citizen of the city would gather to worship the Elite. There was also a Foundry in every city in order to create the holographic police force. Every sector had its own power generator in the center, and a capital city. The generators were hundreds of miles in diameter, and the capitals were even bigger. Sector A had Capital Reginorus and The Silent Generator. Sector B had Capital Tokinyus and The Elite Generator. Sector C had Capital Slivus and The Furtherus Generator. Sector D had Capital Ovenos and The Twilight Generator. Sector E had Capital Ethenorum and The Ether Generator. Sector F had Capital Tensold and The Lavus Generator. Sector G had Capital Junuis and The Depth Generator. Finally, Sector H had Capital Grownith and The Hunt Generator. After the destruction of the planet, the Leafy Kingdom became a temperate forest. In the province east of Capoppia, a place called Lordensmite, there now stands the new Philoxian Empire's staging grounds, including the Communication Tower.

FREEZEFLAME KINGDOM HISTORY

Contact: The Freezeflame Kingdom, better known as Icenda, was a cold, frozen wasteland of a planet. It housed one major species, that being the Ice Spikes. The Ice Spikes, or the Icendians, were large ogre-like creatures. The had white fur and ice crystals protruding from their body. They were viscous and mostly solitary. However, the Ice Spikes were known to band together in the face of danger. When the Philoxian Empire arrived in 1970, the Ice Spikes hijacked a landed scout craft and proceeded to attack the fleet. However, the uprising was suppressed by Chirox and a group of Zelphoxians.

Meltdown: The Rising Star then prepared for a plasma glassing of the plant in order to conquer it. However, the other three ships in the fleet did not feature Superweapons, so the Rising Star had to glass the planet solely. During the attack, the Philox ordered the auxiliary power supplies to be used in order to destroy the planet at maximum capacity. However, the energy was too immense and the primary engines on the ship shut down as the Superweapon went into a critical meltdown. Two engineers were sent to fix the problem, and were required to wear heat-protective suits due to the heat of the reactor. There, they were forced to restart the engines manually and in doing so, were killed by the radioactivity and the immense heat. The Superweapon attack left the planet completely obliterated, with one half of the planet spewing molten core into space. This look earned the planet its name when it was found by the Mushroom Kingdom in 1980. Scientists were baffled as to why the planet was split into two.

A New Empire: After Philox's death, Rigex, Philox's brother and shipmaster, created the new splinter organization from the ashes of the Philoxian Empire. This new organization made Icenda its base of operations. Several battle stations and space ports dotted the land, and Rigex slowly grew his new empire. In 2017, the newly formed Rigexian Empire lead its assault on the Mushroom Kingdom in search of Mario. Later on, the Elite told Rigex to assassinate the Creators as part of the bargain. Due to Icenda's location, the Elite would be able to form a Warp Portal there. Due to this, Rigex's fleet headed out to Icenda but in a turn of events, the Elite revealed that he actually didn't have the capability to form the correct portal. The Elite claimed that a garment on Peach's body was powerful enough to form the right Warp Portal. Knowing that Mario and Peach would follow him to the Freezeflame Kingdom, Rigex searched the wintery forest for his targets. After finding them, a battle ensued. During this time, Luigi hijacked a scout ship and left to save Mario and Peach.

Geography: Icenda, or the Freezeflame Kingdom, had one major feature, that being its Impact Site. The Impact Site takes up the entirety of the Eastern Hemisphere. The site is also so deep that it protrudes into the planet's core. Large chunks of the planet float in space above the site, suspended by the low gravity and the constant hot air that pushes upwards. The largest chunk is called the Great Pillar, the second largest is called Philox's Gathering, and the third largest is known as Brethren Rock. The air in the core is around 4000 degrees, and it streams into deep space due to hot air's tendency to rise. Because of this, the top of the Great Pillar has a thin but sustained atmosphere, even though it is far into the exosphere of the planet. The temperature is about 100 degrees due to the cooling of the hot air. By the time the core air reaches sub zero temperatures, it plummets back down to the planet and cools the rest of Icenda. Due to Icenda's distance from its star, the planet never warms up. The area around the Impact Site is known as the Drop-offs. These areas are rocky, but warm. There are some cracks that propagate throughout this area, and these cracks are known as the Fissures. Geography around the Fissures is volcanic and harsh. Base Alpha is found in the Northern Hemisphere of the planet, and it is the largest of Rigex's battle stations.

This base has several shipyards and landing ports. Base Beta is found at the equator, and is the same size as Base Alpha. On the opposite side of the planet is Base Delta, which is the smallest of all the battle stations. Near Base Beta is Landing Port Bravo. This landing port is small and is north of Base Beta in the Northern Tundra. This area is prone to extreme snow storms, but also contains a magnificent forest. Landing Port Bravo is where Rigex lands in search of Mario and Peach. The Western Hemisphere is almost always dark due to the gravitational imbalances that prevent the planet from fully rotating. This area is known as the Twilight Hemisphere, and it is practically inhabitable. In the Southern Hemisphere is the Great Ice Plains, which are plains of pure ice and nothing more. The North Pole, where Base Alpha is located, features warmer weather, so the snow sometimes melts to reveal plains of shrubs. Near Base Delta is the Salt Fields, a land filled with mountains and plains of salt. Sometimes, large salt crystals can be found.

BIRD HISTORY

Invention: The planet of Herbbes, or the Mountain Kingdom, was created by the Designer. It was a small planet that housed a very specific avian creatures. This species was known as the Herbay species, or just the Birds. The Birds were quite intelligent and lived in cities built in the mountains, high above the clouds.

Disaster: The planet of Herbbes was attacked by Philox's fleet. Only 1% of the Bird population survived. The planet quickly became uninhabitable, so the small group of Birds used a prototype jumpship to travel to the nearest inhabitable planet. The remaining Birds landed on the planet of Minufactora, or the Factory Kingdom. This planet existed on the very edge of the universe, and was utilized by the Creators for use of creating spare Mobile Forms. The planet was mostly uninhabited, as the atmosphere was composed of noxious gases produced from the fumes of the factories. In fact, the entire planet was composed of factories.

Habitation: The Birds exploited a new niche on Minufactora. They were able to breathe the noxious atmosphere due to an evolutionary trait that allows them to filter gases. However, the Birds quickly discovered the product that had been in production on the planet. They discovered the source of the product, and accidentally disturb it. The Birds were subjected to extreme energies that enabled the Mobile Forms to have abilities. These energies in turn powered the small group of Birds, who later became a group of intergalactic heroes.

Superheroes: Each Bird was subjected to a different energy deposit. The group later nicknamed themselves based on their powers. There was the Time Bird with the ability to control time, the Laser Bird with the power to shoot lasers, the Ice Bird possessing cryogenic powers, the Bomb Bird with explosive capabilities, the Death Bird with control over darkness and death, the Poison Bird with the ability to poison others, the Fire Bird possessing pyrogenic capabilities, the Lightning Bird with electrical powers, and the Power Bird with ultimate strength and speed. The Ultra Birds, as they called themselves, were lead by the Power Bird. The Power Bird lead his comrades to other worlds to prevent evil. However, things didn't always go according to plan.

Time Distortion: Certain Members of the Ultra Birds ultimately became corrupt. The Poison Bird began selling Mobile Forms to people on the Mushroom Kingdom, as there was a high demand for them there. He would often sneak away from the other members in order to do this. The missions ultimately ended in the group members dying. The only bird that existed forever was the Time Bird. This is because the Time Bird has the ability to travel between timelines so that there is always a copy of him that exists. This paradox creates an interesting situation. The other birds end up living forever within the different timelines, except the Time Bird is the only one who can observe them all. In the timeline that is observed in the contemporary history, most of the Birds die. Only the Death Bird and Ice Bird remain. The Ice Bird was defeated by the Death Bird and was frozen on the Mushroom Kingdom for a million years. The Death Bird had been obsessed with Time Bird's time travel, so he devised a plan to obtain the powers. However, this caused the entire group to split with most ultimately being killed. The Death Bird managed to survive for millions of years by traveling through timelines with the Time Bird. The two were engrossed in a war, and the Time Bird was losing. He sent a distress message to the future for someone to rescue the Ice Bird. The message gets to Mario and Luigi, who free the Ice Bird. The Ice Bird later rejoins the Time Bird in the fight against the corrupt Death Bird. Finally, Death Bird is defeated and sent to a maximum security prison. In a strange turn of events, Bomb Bird had made it there. It turns out that he didn't actually die, but was teleported to the future where he believed the police were evil menaces. Bomb Bird is later killed by Death Bird, who had escaped the prison. Months later, the Death Bird creates a top secret lair near the western Mushroom Kingdom. The Death Bird begins studying Warp Portals, an alternative solution to time travel. This method would also allow the Death Bird to live indefinitely. However, this leads him to studying extraterrestrial vehicles such as Philox's ship and other alien craft. Death Bird ends up attempting to secure footage of an extraterrestrial space ship. He learns that a witness had actually been inside the ship after reviewing the footage, and abducts the witness. The witness ends up not knowing much about the Warp systems, so Death Bird kept him as a test subject instead. Weeks later, Death Bird conducts an operation involving a Warp Portal. He sends his test subject through, who is never to be seen of again. The test subject actually ended up at the Paranormal Dimension, and was possessed by a Boo.

BORING ADVENTURES HISTORY

Split: The Boring Adventures universe was once one in the same as the Normal universe. However, the Boring Adventures universe was formed when the Elite defeated the other two Creators on Terramorph as opposed to being trapped by them. This creates the alternate dimension. Once the Elite defeated the other two Creators, he absorbed their powers. However, the Elite became too powerful for even his own mind to handle. He went insane on Terramorph, until is soul collapsed on himself. The planet of Terramorph was engulfed in a ball of pure god energy. Elsewhere in the universe, life went on as normal. The Toads and Koopas traveled to the Mushroom Kingdom and inhabited the Mushroom Kingdom. As such, the war on the Leafy Kingdom still occurred.

Demigods: The energy from Terramorph often ejected into space and formed comets. One of these comets eventually landed on the Mushroom Kingdom. It split into six separate parts as it descended through the atmosphere of the planet. The split energy eventually made it's way to six beings, who absorbed the energy and became the six demigods of the Mushroom Kingdom. There were the three Eon Gods of the country of the Mushroom Kingdom, and the three Neo Gods of the Dark Island. The three Eon Gods were Giganatus the Koopa, god of strength, Pyronocal the Human, god of fire, and Paraxia the Princess, goddess of time. The three gods ruled over the land of the Mushroom Kingdom. Across the ocean, on the Dark Island, there existed three alternate demigods, the Neo Gods. The Neo Gods were Necronis the Magikoopa, god of magic, Twilis the Shade, god of darkness, and Gravitron the Beast, god of gravity. The two trios of demigods never met each other. Until one day…

Clash: One day, the demigods from the Dark Island discovered the Mushroom Kingdom. After discovering each other, the trios began to fight out of fear of the other side. This era is collectively known as the War Era. The battles destroyed the planet of the Mushroom Kingdom. It wasn't until the arrival of the Mirians that the war begun to settle down. An alien race from Miria, or the Sky High Kingdom, found the Mushroom Kingdom and planned to conquer it. However, the two trios united and fought back against the Mirian attack. During this war against the extraterrestrial race, the main Mushroom Kingdom continent split up into three parts. The western part became Koopa Island, separated from the mainland by the Koopa sea. The northern part split off to become the Ancient Island, the site of Gigantus's castle. After the war had ended, two trios went their separate ways in harmony. Years later, Necronis began to think of a plan to consume the Eon Gods. He was desperate to obtain their power since he believed that they were inferior to the Neo Gods. On the Dark Island, Necronis began constructing a machine that would revert the demigods to their pure energy forms. He gathered all the demigods at the machine, telling them that it was a meeting about a new "extraterrestrial race". Before they could realize what was actually happening, Necronis activated the machine. However, the machine ended up transforming all of the demigods into energy forms. They each became small crystals, with their souls and energy trapped inside for an eternity.

Crystals: The three Eon Gods became the Giga Crystal, the Pyro Crystal, and the Para Crystal. The three Neo Gods became the Necro Crystal, the Twili Crystal, and the Gravi Crystal. A millennia passed before the crystals were found by explorers and raiders on the Dark Island. They were thought to be the most valuable crystals on the planet for the beauty and color. However, many people fought over the crystals, and so they ended up in the far corners of the world. The Pyro Crystal was found by Stevie, a Creeper Hunter, on Koopa Island. The Giga Crystal was discovered by Bowser on the Lost Island. Bowser later extracted the power of the crystal using a machine created by Kamek in order to conquer the Mushroom Kingdom.

Adventure: Luigi jumps awake after dreaming of Bowser taking over the world. He then realizes that King Bronty would be giving his enlightening speech at the old Theater. Luigi rushes to wake Mario, and the two set out. After arriving at the Theater, Mario meets Peach, the King's daughter. Mario instantly falls in love. The show starts, but Luigi is sorely disappointed by it and ends up shooting Bronty, killing him. It is revealed that Luigi is high on drugs during this time. Mario and Peach escape the Theater while Luigi is arrested. Mario and Peach end up in the Mushroom Forest, where they encounter Bowser Junior and his troops. They kidnap Peach, as Mario is struck with horror. After loosing Peach and Luigi, Mario tries to kill himself. Meanwhile, Stevie and his partner Black Yoshi are hunting Creepers. Stevie thinks that Mario is a Creeper, and shoots him. However, Stevie realizes his mistake and rushes Mario to the hospital. Meanwhile, Luigi is thrown into jail, where he quickly encounters the jailers. The jail gang attempts to beat Luigi up, until Pikachu jumps out of the shower. The jailers are electrocuted by Pikachu's powerful attacks. Pikachu and Luigi then escape the jail to the Apocalypse Swamp. Back at the Mushroom City, Mario is taken to the hospital. There, Stevie gives Mario a special crystal as an apology. It's the Pyro Crystal. Then Bowser's troops appear. They say they're looking for Mario. Toad, the nurse, tells them that he is Mario, and is kidnapped. Mario is safe, for now. However, Kamek appears outside the city and uses the power of the Giga Crystal to grow a Chain Chomp to an enormous size. The massive Chain Chomp romps through the city, destroying buildings and structures in its wake. Mario, Stevie, and Black Yoshi are forced to escape the city in a Batmobile. They do, but crash in Creeper Woods. Meanwhile, Luigi and Pikachu take refuge in the Apocalypse Swamp. There, Luigi discovers the Para Crystal. It isn't long before police forces raid the Swamp in attack helicopters. Pikachu activates his electro form and destroys many helicopters. Luigi takes a dead police man's gun and begins to shoot them. However, Pikachu is shot down by a missile. He is then shot to death by a cop. Luigi, horrified at the incident, runs to the Dry Desert. Back in the Creeper Woods, Mario, Stevie, and Black Yoshi are ambushed by hundreds of explosive Creepers. Kamek uses his powers again to transform a small Creeper into a massive hulking beast. Stevie, Mario, and Black Yoshi are trapped, but Stevie tries to kill the thing by throwing pine cones at it. Of course, his attacks are futile. A familiar being by the name of Link appears and climbs up the side of the Creeper. At the head, he stabs it, which kills it instantly. The trio try and thank Link for his efforts, but Link ends up smacking Mario and running off. Meanwhile, in the Dry Desert, Luigi spots a fallen attack helicopter. In it is the jail gang. They attempt to kill Luigi, but fail. Luigi throws the giant off into space, and the rest of the group disperse. As night falls, Luigi finds an inn at the desert. Wario and Waluigi run it, as they were stationed there by Bowser. Luigi finds his room, and takes out the Para Crystal on the bed. Wario and Waluigi spy on him from a crack in the wall. However, Luigi notices and the Wario brothers attack. Wario unleashes his atomic fart, causing everyone to be jettisoned to space. There, an epic battle ensues. Luigi wins the battle and knocks the Wario brothers into the depths of space. Luigi then falls back to the planet. Meanwhile, Mario, Stevie, and Black Yoshi arrive at Koopa Beach. There, Stevie and Black Yoshi leave Mario to attempt to cross the Koopa

Sea on his own. That night, Luigi arrives at the beach and the two brothers finally reunite. However, a Mirian guardian called Kyogre appears and attacks the brothers. Mario and Luigi eventually convince it that they're peaceful, and Kyogre agrees to transport the two across Koopa Sea. In the morning, the group sets out for Koopa Island. However, halfway across the sea, Kamek appears and uses the Giga energy to cause a Blooper to grow immensely. Fortunately, with the help of Mario and Luigi, Kyogre defeats the fiend. On Koopa Island, Mario and Luigi begin their ascent to the castle. The land is dark and fiery. There, Kamek makes his final stand against the Mario bros. Unfortunately for him, he fails and is cast into the lava. At the castle. Peach is shown to be caged above Bowser's personal lair. Toad is there as well, watching as the brothers approach Bowser. A final battle erupts, and Bowser is ultimately defeated. Mario and Luigi save Peach and Toad, and head home. However, Bowser survives the attack and absorbs the rest of the power of the Giga Crystal. Back at home, Mario and Luigi and Peach rejoice. Just as they think the ordeal is over, a massive Bowser appears and begins romping through the neighborhood. The entire town falls under the weight of Giga Bowser. Then, Stevie and Black Yoshi appear with a nuclear bomb. Unfortunately, something goes wrong and the bomb ends up requiring manual detonation. Stevie volunteers to sacrifice himself, much to Black Yoshi's disagreement. Stevie ignores Black Yoshi's plea, and rides the bomb as it is launched into Bowser's mouth. The bomb detonates, and Bowser survives. As a last ditch effort, Luigi gives Mario his Para Crystal. The Para Cystal causes Mario to travel back to the past to a place called the Ancient Island. There, on a ruined altar in a jungle, Bowser attempts to obtain the Giga Crystal. Mario sees this and tries to stop him, knowing he can prevent Bowser's reign from even happening. A final duel breaks out as the altar flies into the sky as a form of a booby trap. The battle rages on in a purple twilight sky, and Mario decides to finally use the Pyro Crystal. He erupts in flames, and finally destroys Bowser as he falls back through a portal to the present…

SILVER BULLET CLAN HISTORY

Captivity: White Yoshi was a Yoshi born on one of the Yoshi Islands in 1921. He was raised on the island before being captured by explorers in 1925. White Yoshi was sold to a zoo in Mid Mushroom Kingdom. At this time, the intelligence of Yoshis was unknown to the modern world. White Yoshi was a rare breed, so he was desired by people willing to put him on display. After several years in captivity, White Yoshi broke free in 1932 and fled to the countryside. Eventually, White Yoshi discovered a family who was willing to adopt the Yoshi. Yoshis were often desired in the country for their ability to raise crops and for their horse power. At the farm, White Yoshi learned English and became extremely intelligent. In 1943, the buying and selling of Yoshis was outlawed.

Underground: White Yoshi cared deeply for his family. However, tragedy struck the family one night. White Yoshi had been working on the farm so he went to sleep in the barn. The same night, the family was mysteriously killed by a paranormal force.

White Yoshi was struck with anger, hatred, and hopelessness. He swore to avenge his family's demise. White Yoshi then left the farm to become homeless at the nearby town. In order to survive, White Yoshi joined a pact of underground criminals. He quickly rose to the top ranks of this group, and turned it into a clan.

Vengeance: With a clan of ruthless criminals on his side, White Yoshi set out to avenge his family's death. He quickly learned that a paranormal event occurred on the night of the killings, and so White Yoshi searched for a way to destroy ghosts. A mine on Silver Mountain was the answer, as it dug up deposits of Meta Silver in order to craft ghost killing weapons. White Yoshi stormed the mine, killing all of the workers. He managed to steal the most high tech weapon at the mine, called the Silver Bullet Gun. This pistol was designed to kill almost anything with its Meta Silver bullets. White Yoshi became its wielder. He named his clan the Silver Bullet Clan in honor of the legendary gun. However, after years of searching, White Yoshi was unable to find the ghosts that killed his family, but was confronted by something far more sinister.

Confrontation: One day, White Yoshi returned to Silver Mountain in order to collect more ammunition for his gun. After scouring the location, he located a crashed alien spacecraft in the heart of the mine. It had been lying there for thousands of years, and was the cause of the development of the Meta Silver inside the mountain. Disturbed and haunted by the space ship, White Yoshi swore to never tell anybody about the sighting. In 1995, White Yoshi awoke to the sound of his bedroom door creaking open. He was living in a massive apartment after becoming rich off of his crimes. In the doorway stood an ominous, shady figure. White Yoshi could barely recognize the figure, but the way it stood struck fear into his heart. When it spoke, a chilling, mechanic voice emitted from its dark body. The entity told White Yoshi to hide the Silver Mountain mine from the government before mysteriously disappearing. Horrified, White Yoshi rushed to cover up the mine shaft the very next day. Even now, he still doesn't know the answers to his extraterrestrial encounter. In 2014, White Yoshi was raiding a high profile bank in Philadelphia when a child stole the Silver Bullet Gun. Enraged, White Yoshi sent his entire clan after the kid in order to stop him and torture him.

MOOGER AND LEAPORDUDE HISTORY

South Lands: Leapordude was born in South Mushroom Kingdom in 1973. He lived a life in the jungles of Argengoo, a place where toxic acid was common. The land contained many rivers and lakes full of the purple poison. Leapordude's parents were killed by the dangerous Scuttlebugs of the jungle when he was young. It's a possibility that he had been subjected to brain damage, too. After being left to die in the dangerous jungle, Leapordude tried to survive on his own. He had traveled for several days before he encountered Dorrie, the friendly aquatic dinosaur. Dorrie offered to transport Leapordude to a "place far away". This place would be the Mushroom Kingdom, where he would meet up with Mooger.

Underwater March: Mooger was a creature called a Jolver, an aquatic species that lived primarily on the ocean floor. He was born in 1961, around the time when his clan began the migration from the Deep Ocean towards the Mushroom Kingdom seabed. During the long march across the deep ocean, a group of Bloopers and deadly Cheep Chomps wiped out most of the Jolvers in the migration chain. Mooger was separated from the group and was then forced to find the Mushroom Kingdom seabed on his own. Many dangerous obstacles stood in his way. Though he was young, he managed to survive Urchins, Dragoneels, Mawreys, Unagi Eels, and Komboos. After making it to the seabed, he decided to venture to the surface out of fear of the deadly sea creatures that he had encountered before. There, the first person he met was Leapordude, and the two became best friends.

LIST OF PLANETS

Mushroom Kingdom: The Mushroom Kingdom's real name, given by the Creators, is Natura. It's primary species are Humans, Toads, and Koopas. It is composed of water and land, with quite a lot of vegetation.

Leafy Kingdom: The Leafy Kingdom's real title is Remorius. It was once controlled by the Elite and was composed entirely of metropolis super structures. However, it was destroyed in a civil war. All that remains is a vast forest with oceans. It once was inhabited entirely by Toads.

Plasma Kingdom: The Plasma Kingdom's true name is Keppa. It was inhabited mainly by the Koopa species. The land was mostly water with some tropical islands, and lots of volcanoes. However, most of the Koopas left the planet, and it was later glassed by the Philoxian empire. Only the Galaxia Clan remained.

Cacti Kingdom: The Cacti Kingdom's real name was Chandek. It was mainly a desert wasteland due to it's relation to the closest star. A species called the Chandekians lived there. The Chandekians were also called Ballistics. The main city and the capital of the planet was known as Tribek. This massive junk town was a space port that was frequented by many extraterrestrial species. One Ballistic, named Chirox, joined Philox in his attempt to gain supernatural abilities. Unfortunately, the Ballistics were exterminated as a result of the glassing of the planet.

Aqua Kingdom: More commonly known as Zelphox, this planet was home to both Philox and Rigex. The species were called Zelphoxians, or Roxiors. The planet is nearly entirely deep waters, with the cities being built beneath the waves. There was once a massive civil war on the planet, the Southern Alliance versus the Northern Federation. The war fortunately ended. However, Philox eventually glassed his own planet in order to obtain the abilities from the Elite.

Sky High Kingdom: This planet was known also as Miria. Its native species were giant whale-like creatures that possessed special powers. They were called Mirians, or Kyogres by the people of the Mushroom Kingdom. The planet was mainly gases, with the cities floating high up. The Mirians also craved for universal domination, though they aren't too terribly powerful.

Poison Kingdom: The Poison Kingdom is also called Krothius. It is home to the Krothians, a race of strange beings that resemble an octopus. The Krothians desire to take the food energy from the Mushroom Kingdom and use it for themselves. The Poison Kingdom is a strange planet. It is covered in swamps that contain a corrosive liquid. Edible vegetation has grown limited. Some Krothians are covertly working with Death Bird to destroy the Mushroom Kingdom. The Krothians are known to utilize hypnotic dances to brainwash their prey.

Mountain Kingdom: Also known as Herbbes, the Mountain Kingdom was created by the Designer and contained bird-like creatures called the Harbays, or Birds. Philox's fleet quickly destroyed the planet, and only a small portion of the population survived. This minuscule group traveled on a broken down jumpship to a mysterious planet far away from home.

Factory Kingdom: Also known as Minufactora, this planet was created for the sole purpose of producing Mobile Forms, also known as Amiibo by the people of the Mushroom Kingdom. The entire planet was composed of factories to produce millions of Mobile Forms for the Creators to use. However, it wasn't long before the Birds interfered with the production lines. The chemicals used to give the Mobile Forms their abilities were accidentally sprayed on the Birds, causing them to become powerful. One of the Birds began selling Mobile Forms to people on the Mushroom Kingdom, which lead to Amiibo becoming popular on the planet.
